New Division Of Road Funds Talked

Counties Would Contribute Fourth
Of Secondary Improvement Money

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

A solution to the problem of improvement of secondary roads on the state system, which are the subject most often of controversy, was offered in a discussion by a group of senators and some action along the suggested lines may be taken.

It was pointed out that the counties of the state get approximately one-half of the gasoline tax. From this, it was argued, they could contribute to the improvements of secondary roads they want in their counties.

If the counties would contribute one-fourth of the cost and the state another fourth, it was pointed out it could be matched with 50 per cent federal money and the state would be able to double the amount of secondary road construction it can now do each year.

Federal secondary funds are piling up unmatched it was said, due to reluctance of counties to match them.

Sen. Monroe Bixler, Harrison, said that use of gasoline funds for this purpose has been used several times in Sioux County and where inadequately served ranchers have personally contributed to raise the one-fourth share of the county.

This practice has also been used in Sheridan and Cherry Counties to get roads local residents deemed necessary.

Virtues of the plan are threefold, advocates of the county-state-federal matching system for secondary roads claim.

1. It could double the amount of secondary roads to be improved each year.

2. It would eliminate the constant parade of pressure groups calling on the governor and highway department seeking improvement of certain roads.

3. It would make residents of the counties conscious of the amount of money they receive in gas taxes and they would watch to see that it is not wasted in purchase of expensive machinery and duplication of equipment.

Sen. Faure Battles, Premier Edgar Faure, battling every hour of an all-night session, told the French Senate he had already contacted the United States and Britain on preparations for an eventual meeting with the Soviet Union. He made such an East-West conference, covering all problems "susceptible to a solution," the final item in a five-point statement of government policy.

French officials said Sunday Eisenhower's remarks, Bulgarian's statement to Tass, and a comment from a British Foreign Office spokesman at night endorsing Faure's policy, were all "a first concrete result" of diplomatic steps taken by France last week.

The French initiative, said these officials, was aimed at convening a meeting of the Big Four powers as rapidly as possible after affiliation of the Paris agreements.

Further Hope
French officials drew further hope from Russia's invitation to Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab, in which the Kremlin expressed its approval of an eventual four-power parley on the long-stalemate Austrian Treaty. This could easily lead, they said, to a similar meeting on a German treaty.

French Arms OK Sets Path

PARIS (AP)—France finally made up her mind Sunday on Germany's role in Western defense and, breaking up a lengthy diplomatic logjam, opened a path to a new East-West conference to ease world tensions.

The French Senate's resounding endorsement of the Paris accords on West German rearmament also breathed new life into the ideal of European unification, drooping ever since the collapse of the European Defense Community project last summer.

As the Senate began voting on the new treaties, Soviet Premier Marshal Nikolai Bulganin advanced Soviet support for a new Big Four conference. He did so in expressing his "positive attitude" toward President Eisenhower's news conference remarks Wednesday, advocating such an East-West meeting after the Paris pact have been fully ratified.

To push the Paris accords through the French Senate, Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay beat down all attempts to delay or cripple endorsement, and came up with ample majorities. They thus completed the efforts of Faure's predecessor, Pierre Mendès-France, one of the authors of the French National Assembly last December.

On the key issue—to add West Germany and Italy to the old Brussels Treaty and use this new seven-power Western European Union to supervise West German rearmament—Faure won easily, 184 to 110.

Four of the prisoners involved in Sunday's holding of Nebraska Penitentiary guards had participated in a Jan. 19 attempt to escape.

Capt. Walter Kennedy of the Salvation Army in Lincoln said Sunday night he had offered his services as go-between in the Nebraska Penitentiary disturbance.

He said he regularly meets once a week with the prisoners and feels he is on good terms with them.

However, Capt. Kennedy said he was told that officials did not feel it was necessary that his services be used at this time but he would be notified if he were needed.

Governor, Other Officials Spend Night Watching

Twelve Inmates Hold Guards
In Prison's Jail Building

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

Two Nebraska Penitentiary guards were seized and held hostage by 12 prisoners in the maximum security building Sunday and early Monday morning Gov. Victor E. Anderson was abiding by his decision to "wait it out."

The guards — Eugene Swanson, 34, of 1111 H, and Warren B. Miller, 43, of 1636 Otee — were taken by the prisoners at 10:30 a.m. Sunday by the 12 men in the isolated building that is called "the jail."

Scores of guards and State Safety Patrolmen kept guns trained on the building's single entrance as the day, then the night passed.

Through the night lights played on the building, darkened by the prisoners themselves. And near midnight, Gov. Anderson, who had taken charge of the situation from the outset, announced after a strategy meeting with other officials:

"We'll wait it out. That's the feeling at this time," he said, adding, "No demands have been made nor calls received."

Sitting in with the Governor in his command position were his administrative assistant, A. C. Eichberg, Attorney General C. S. Beck, Warden Herbert Hann, Deputy Warden John Greenholtz, Penal Director Col. B. B. Albert, Safety Patrol Commander Col. Carl Sanders, and Board of Control Chairman W. H. Diers.

The officials decided that Gov. Anderson should stay within the prison walls all night, to be available should the prisoners make contact.

"No Overtures"
Authorities were determined, the Governor added, that they would not make any overtures to the prisoners, but the prisoners must make the first move.

Gov. Anderson explained in a news conference, that they wanted "to move cautiously" and make no "hasty decisions."

"Our thought is of the welfare of the guards. We don't want to jeopardize them."

After dark, Gov. Anderson went out into the prison yard for an inspection trip. He returned without incident.

The Governor said that if the prisoners try to talk to him by telephone he would tell them that "each one would be held individually responsible for what happens."

At lights out, the whole prison population—which presently numbers 746 men—went to bed normally, officials said.

Couldn't Say How
The two big questions which could not be answered by officials were how the guards were overpowered and how the prisoners got out of their cells.

Only the 14 men, including guards and prisoners, were in the jail building. No prisoners, officials said, were in the much-publicized "Hole" which has been unused in the past months.

The maximum security building was an estimated 100 feet from any other building or any wall on the prison grounds.

Neither Miller nor Swanson were armed, officials said. But there was speculation that both men had knives on their person or in their lunchboxes.

The prisoners, in early contacts, claimed to have knives.

Patrolmen On Duty
Between 60 and 70 Penitentiary guards were on duty during the waiting hours and some 30 State Safety Patrolmen were on hand.

The prison chaplain and doctor were also standing by.

The last report heard by telephone after 3:30 p.m., was that they were "all right."

Prison operations outside of the segregation building followed normal routine throughout the day with no other signs of disturbances. Both the noon and evening meals were served in the usual manner in the dining hall.

Monday's breakfast was to be served in a normal way, but officials had not decided on plans for work details.

As near as prison officials have been able to reconstruct what happened, Miller—who started work in January of this year—was captured first.

When Swanson went to his aid, he also was captured. Swanson began work in December, 1954.

A telephone call was made, either by one of the guards or a prisoner, to Capt. Robert Holt. Holt was asked to come to the isolated building, which he did warily.

The prisoners tried to take Capt. Holt, he said, but he escaped.

Free From Cells
All of the prisoners in the building, it was reported, were free from their cells.

Deputy Warden John Greenholtz, when advised of the disturbance, immediately went to the building. He was accompanied by six members of the Nebraska Safety Patrol, who had been summoned.

Patrolmen Called
At the request of the Governor, Col. Sanders called all available Safety Patrolmen in the Lincoln area.

Five of 12 men in segregation had previously attempted escapes

EUGENE SWANSON

WARREN B. MILLER

Mrs. Swanson Not Told That Husband Held

A visibly disturbed Mrs. Eugene Swanson, wife of the prison guard being held hostage at the Penitentiary, said she had heard no report from Warden Herbert Hann on her husband's captivity.

Mrs. Swanson, mother of two children, said her husband, who is originally from York, formerly had worked as a guard at a naval base at Astoria, Ore.

The distraught mother said the first news she heard of her husband being held captive at the pen was over the radio around 9 p.m. She said neighbors in the apartment building at 1111 H also had told her of the incident.

She said she and her children, Rosalyn, 1 year, and Sherry Rae, 5, were keeping a close radio watch awaiting any future developments. She said "Oh! I hope nothing happens."

Swanson has worked at the Penitentiary only since last December.

Family Told Only That He Was 'Detained'

"The warden called us at noon and said Warren was being detained," said the father of Warren B. Miller, one of the two guards being held hostage.

"We supposed his relief hadn't showed up," said Peter H. Miller of 1636 Otee. "The warden didn't say he was a hostage until a friend called us to say she heard the news on the radio."

Miller, a retired railroadman, said his son Warren, 43, had worked in Beatrice as a freezer salesman before coming to Lincoln and taking a job as a Penitentiary guard in January.

Warren, who is divorced, lives with his parents. His former wife and their children are living in California.

Miller said he didn't know any details except what he had heard on the radio. Although concerned for his son's safety, he expressed belief that prison authorities would "work the thing out."

from the Penitentiary. Four of them were recently given additional sentences after their capture when they got over the wire fence enclosure. It was the most recent escape attempt.

Greenholtz said the 12 men had not eaten since Sunday breakfast and "should be getting hungry."

Col. B. B. Albert, who recently took over a new position as Nebraska's Director of Penal Institutions, said the incident "probably was unhearsable."

The Penal Director, who has been living at the prison, said he "felt no tension at all" the past week. "In fact, the morale was climbing."

Albert speculated all 12 prisoners might not be involved in the incident.

Also supporting the theory that the uprising was spontaneous, officials said, was the fact that none of the other prisoners in the institution was involved and there were no incidents elsewhere at the prison.

"We don't look for any trouble," said Gov. Anderson. "They (the 12 convicts) aren't going anywhere."

Prisoners Listed
Prisoners involved in the trouble were reported to be:

Ronald Larkin, Greeley, Neb., sentenced in January, 1955 for an earlier escape attempt and a former Reformatory inmate;

Orin W. Schultz, Greeley, Neb., serving eight-year term for robbery, 1953, and has five-year term for escape to follow;

Gilbert Sagaser, San Luis Obispo,

Calif., serving one-to-three for burglary, 1953, has 18-month term for Reformatory escape and five-year term for Penitentiary escape attempt to follow;

Joseph Rogue, Winnebago, Neb., serving 15 years for attempted rape;

Gerald Hoffman, held for Otee County authorities;

John Ward, Stamford, Canada, serving six years for burglary and auto theft;

Joe Beades, Kansas City, serving life for second degree murder with a record of 20 institutional infractions and attempted escape;

Elwood Robinson, Scottsbluff, serving one year for breaking and entering;

James Owen, Jonesboro, Ark., a transfer from the Reformatory after an escape from there;

Raymond Tapia, Denver, serving seven years for robbery in Douglas County and attempted escape last Jan. 19, five years additional;

Paul Flath, Wichita, serving 10 years for robbery from Douglas County and attempted escape last Jan. 19, five years additional;

Paul Barnes, Sioux Falls, S. D., sentenced from Lancaster County for larceny and scheduled for a sanity hearing.

AEC Adds Atomic Ack-Ack

PLAN TEST SOON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Sunday night officially disclosed plans to add atomic anti-aircraft weapons to its already extensive nuclear arsenal.

A joint Atomic Energy Commission - Defense Department announcement revealed that the current weapons tests in Nevada will include the firing of a nuclear blast miles high in the air, at an altitude where enemy bombers would fly. Such an explosion might be powerful enough to wreck an entire formation of planes.

"Because of their great power, atomic air defense weapons will greatly increase our ability to repel an enemy air attack," the announcement said.

"The employment of such weapons . . . will enhance the effectiveness of interceptor aircraft squadrons and ground-based air defense units in stopping enemy bombers short of our cities and other strategic targets."

Also Air-To-Air

The wording suggested the atomic ack-ack weapons will include missiles or artillery fire not only from the ground but launched from interceptor planes flying high above enemy bomber formations.

It raised the possibility that under some conditions, tactics could involve simultaneous use of ground and air-launched atomic weapons to "bracket" enemy bombers with nuclear fire from top and bottom.

The announcement referred to the use of a nuclear "device" in the forthcoming experiment over Nevada. If an actual missile or artillery shell were involved, the reference probably would have been to a weapon.

From Plane

The assumption is that the test device will be dropped from an aircraft flying at high altitude. It would be exploded at the desired point by barometric pressure, remote control or electronic triggering as the object falls into a radar beam.

Use of atomic explosion will involve a principle different from that of conventional anti-aircraft fire. The knock-down of aircraft by atomic weapons will depend almost entirely on the destructive shock wave of the explosion. With conventional "flak" most damage results from fragmentation of the shell casing.

Vic Decision On Driver's Class Is Due

Gov. Victor Anderson says he expects to decide Monday whether to sign or return unsigned LB 53, which would increase driver's license fees from $2 to $3.

The additional money would go to finance high school driver training courses.

The bill passed the Legislature with a bare 22 vote majority and if returned it would require 26 votes to pass it over the veto.

There has been some objection to the bill because it was amended to specify that funds shall go only to those public schools which open their classes to students from non-public schools. The amendment was the result of protests from some Catholic parents against the bill in its original form.

Some school superintendents are opposed to the present bill, objecting to taking students other than those regularly enrolled in their schools. In other situations, particularly Omaha, it is feared it would increase total schools costs even with the state subsidy.

Senators favoring the bill term it a safety measure and not an educational one. They contend that it the local school authorities do not want to co-operate they can refuse the state funds and allow the money to go to those anxious to promote safety.

'Any Formosa Attack Due In 60 Days'

... Sen. Bridges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said Sunday night he has word that if the Chinese Communists attack Formosa this year they will launch the assault within the next 60 days.

And Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said "all indications" are that the Reds "are building up airfields and forces opposite Quemoy and Matsu."

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he had no information on reports that a Communist attack would come by April 15. Asked about the same reports, Knowland replied, "Nobody has a crystal ball."

The two were interviewed on separate radio-TV programs.

Knowland, the GOP Senate leader, said he thought the Chinese Communists "have the capability" for an attack but he added, "When, or if—no one can be certain."

Both Bridges and Knowland said they considered Quemoy and Matsu, islands off the China coast, necessary for the defense of Formosa, the Chinese Nationalist stronghold.

Italian Premier Scelba Arrives

WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Mario Scelba of Italy arriving for talks with President Eisenhower, Sunday pledged his government would work with the United States to "discourage aggression and prevent more tragedy."

"I think of the United States as the great modern democracy which did not hesitate to sacrifice its high standard of living to defend freedom when it was imperiled," he said at the airport.

Pakistan Decree Divides Country

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—The strong man of Pakistan declared a state of emergency throughout the country Sunday and ruled the two halves of the divided land should henceforth be known as East and West Pakistan.

Acting swiftly to avert legal paralysis that threatened to follow a Federal Court ruling, one of Gov. Gen. Ghulam Mohammed's first actions after assuming the special powers was to write finish to interprovincial rivalries.

West Pakistan hitherto has been composed of the provinces of Punjab and Bahawalpur, Northwest Frontier, Sind and Khaipur and Baluchistan. It has long been the aim of federalists to combine these to balance East Bengal—now East Pakistan—whose 42 million population overshadows the other provinces. Pakistan totals nearly 76 million people in areas separated by hundreds of miles of Indian territory.

Omaha Morals Squad Arrests 37 In Club

OMAHA (AP)—The Police morals squad early Sunday arrested 37 persons, including 15 women, in a raid on the Tavern Owners Club, operated by Leo Kubik.

The 37 were booked as inmates of a disorderly house. Kubik was booked as a keeper.

Thirty-nine bottles of liquor and seven cartons of cigarets were carried from the club by members of the morals squad. Also seized was about $250 found in a cash register.

The disorderly house charge was made despite the fact Kubik recently won a ruling from the Nebraska Supreme Court which upheld "bottle clubs," such as the Tavern Owners Club. A bottle or key club is one in which members own bottles marked with their names.

Squad Sgt. Walter Wilson said some of the bottles found in the club were not marked. He added that other bottles were found "ditched" in a checkroom.

Russia Says Disarmament Meet 'Open'

LONDON (AP)—Russia lashed out Sunday against Western charges that she violated secrecy rules at the London disarmament talks and claimed there never had been any Soviet agreement to keep the conference under wraps.

Pravda, organ of the Communist party, declared the conference "leak" by Andrei Gromyko was a deliberate maneuver "to tell the truth to the international public."

Before leaving the London talks Thursday, the first deputy Soviet foreign minister gave a long, detailed interview to the London correspondent of Tass news agency, charging the Western powers with blocking agreement on disarmament.

Britain, France and the United States replied by charging Gromyko with "gross violation" of secrecy rules governing the London session of the U.N. disarmament subcommittee and said his version "did not conform to the truth."

Mrs. Gaetana Loschiavo, 75, of 2043 Q, died Sunday night at a local hospital.

A native of Italy, she had lived in Lincoln since she was about 15 years old.

She was a member of St. Mary's Cathedral.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Vincent Conglio of Lincoln, Mrs. Bena Minardi and Mrs. Frank Guccardi, both of Dolton, Ill., and Mrs. Phillip Settecase of Lakeview, O.; two sons, Joseph and Sam, both of Chicago; one brother, Gus LaSita of Chicago; and two grandchildren.

The 4-H Pals club worked on mittens at their last meeting. Plans were made for making a beanbag.

The Merry Mermaids bought two finished accessories that go with their lounging outfits. They also brought patterns and material for their lounging outfits. They will bring their lounging outfit: finished to the next meeting.

The Nimble Thimble Club met at the home of Barbara Jo Edwards. The Let's Sew group discussed what kind of material they would use for their hand towels. The beginning baking group had a demonstration on making biscuits by Barbara Jo Edwards and Kay Egger.

Tot Gets Up; Dies On Track; Parents Sleep

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—Before anybody was up at his house this Sunday morning, 3-year-old Joseph Patrick Arabia padded out in his shirt and found a wonderful place to play—right on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks.

Engineer E. Wahlund saw the boy as the train rounded a curve and applied the brakes with all their power, stopping within three car lengths. But it wasn't soon enough. The child was struck and hurled from the track, killed instantly.

Still sleeping at home were the mother, Mrs. Marion Ward, and the grandmother, Mrs. Nora Weed, when the tragic news was brought to them.

Judge Harlan Takes Justice Oath Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Judge John Marshall Harlan will be sworn in Monday as an associate justice of the Supreme Court—following in the footsteps of the grandfather whose name he bears.

At noon the New Yorker will don the black silk robe, receive oaths of office and take his seat on the tribunal's high mahogany bench.

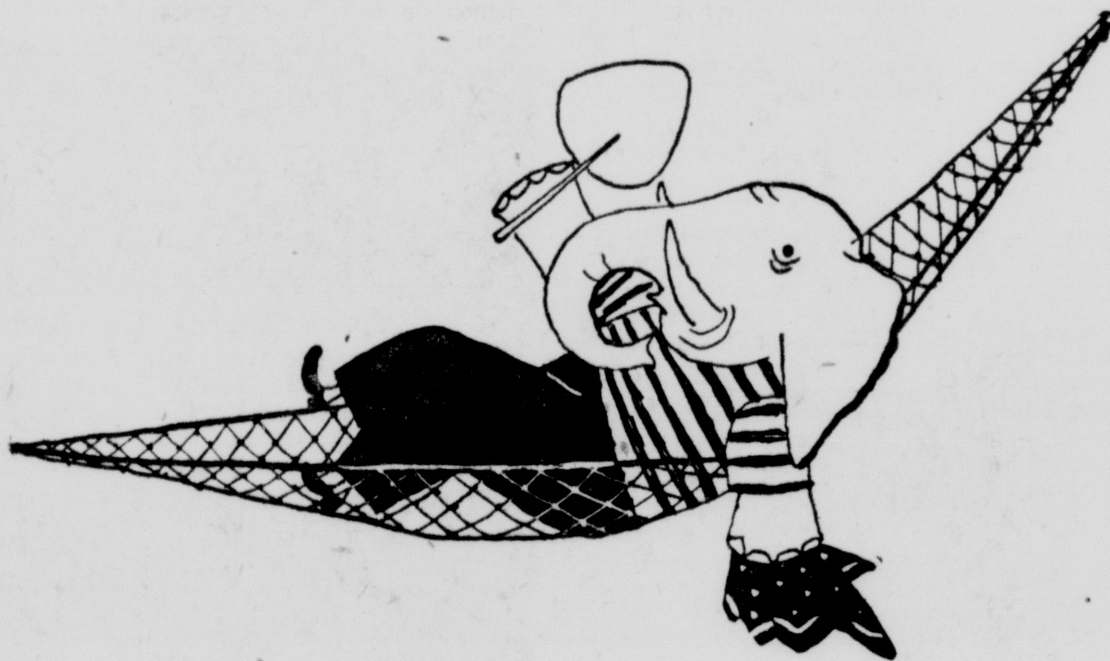

Then he will help the eight other justices tackle the cases which have been pigeonholed for months awaiting his confirmation. Perhaps the mist widely awaited of these is the court's ruling on how to carry out its decision outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

56 In May Harlan, who will be 56 in May, was nominated by President Eisenhower last November to succeed Robert H. Jackson, who died Oct. 8. The Senate judiciary subcommittee became embroiled in hearings on the nomination and didn't vote until March 8. The Senate voted its approval, 71-11, on March 16.

Chief Justice Warren will administer the first oath in a private conference room. This is a pledge to support and defend the constitution.

After that, Harlan will enter the marbled public chamber with the other justices. The court clerk, Harold B. Willey, then will administer the public oath.

NU Buys Eight Paintings, Two Pieces Of Sculpture

By MARIAN SCOTT
Star Staff Writer

Forty-two objects of art have been acquired by the University of Nebraska for the Frank M. Hall Collection, subject to the approval of the Board of Regents of the University.

Norman Geske, acting director of the University Art Galleries, made the announcement Sunday at the conclusion of the showing of the 65th annual exhibition of the Nebraska Art Association.

In the group there are eight oil paintings, two pieces of sculpture and 23 prints.

John Hartell's "Fragments" was the first of the oil paintings to be announced. The picture is related to geometric abstraction with its various shades of browns with soft touches of olive green and rust.

'New York No. 5'

Second in the list was Hedda Sterne's "New York No. 5" which is a close at hand view rather than the stiff patterning that Sterne was once associated with. Third was Cleve Gray's "The Harvest of the Earth is Ripe" who relates a subject not only in description but also in emotion.

"Woman" by Willem DeKooning was chosen for fourth place. The effect of the painting is to get the sense to see a figure with movement and representing the different aspects of the woman which DeKooning is expressing.

A New York born artist, Theodore Stamos, was picked for fifth position with his painting, "A Walk in the Poppies." Strong abstract expressionism is shown in the bold black brush strokes over the brilliant yellows and reds with great feeling of depth.

'Black, Unblack'

"Black Un-Black" by Adolph Gottlieb was chosen for collection. The painting is loosely painted over a blending of fluid black, and red background creating a cloudy atmosphere.

The favorite of many people who have visited the show has also been purchased. Bradley Walker Tomlin's "7" is full of richness and vitality. The gold background with area spots of a rich brown with aqua brush strokes touched off with two spots of orange which are very small but definitely needed in the picture.

John Ferren's "Red and Blue" has a feeling of rhythm of color space. The stark plain soft background has various sizes of color splashes with thin drawn lines in contrast.

Two Sculptures

Two pieces of sculpture were chosen for the Hall collection; Robert Huck's "Sacrificial Carcass" and Calvin Albert's "Dervish."

Three pieces of ceramics by Alim and Warren McKenzie and four pieces of ceramics by Gertrud and Otto Natzler were picked for the permanent collection.

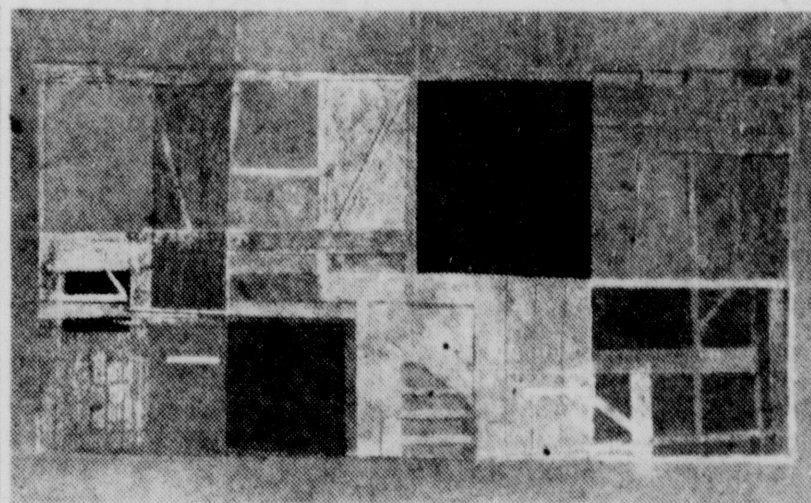

Two paintings were given to the University by a friend of the University. They were Alexander Brook's "The Bay Beyond" and Brian Connelly's "Still Life With Flowers."

The Woods Charitable Foundation gave the Nebraska Art Association Victor Candell's "High Fidelity." The painting is a study of mechanics which is particularly interested in the sound waves and activity within and surrounding a radio tube.

Gifts From Woods

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Woods gave to the Association Walter Stumpfig's "Via Partenope."

The association purchased Niles Spencer's "Entrance to the Fort, Bermuda" and Bernard Arnest's "Fourteenth Avenue." Spencer's painting is one of the quieter pictures in the show.

'Fragments' By Hartell

Among the paintings acquired for the F. M. Hall Collection is "Fragments," an oil by John Hartell.

Arnest's oil on canvas is interested in color, light and effect. The use of geometric plastic spaces held together through the handling of color.

The University of Nebraska also purchased for the Frank M. Hall Collection twenty-three prints by the following artists: Serigraphs by Warrington Colestock, Henry Mark, Edward Landon, Sylvia Wald, Dorr Bothwell; lithographs by Ralston Crawford, James L. Steg, Stuart Davis, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Charles Sheeler; woodcuts by Leonard Baskin, Louis Schank, Seong Moy; wood engravings by Misch Kohn, Arthur Deshaies; etchings (2) by John Marin; and engravings by Sue Fuller, Milton Goldstein, John Paul Jones, Gabor Peterdi, Armin Landeck.

The Association's exhibition which contains approximately 150 pieces will open at the Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha April 10 and continue through May 10.

Auditorium Site Revenue $42,287

The city is terminating the lease of its auditorium site at 15th and N after the area has produced for the city revenue totaling $42,287.49.

The property has been leased since 1947 to Chauncey Barney and has been used as an off-street parking lot. Rental on the property started out at $150 a month and was increased periodically until it is now $700 a month.

The revenue from the lot over the years almost equals the $46,750 the city paid for the property. There is an entire block of ground bounded by 15th, 16th, M and L.

STAN DELAPLANE'S

POSTCARD

Even though spring has arrived amid the twittering of columnists, allow me to remind you that your correspondent twittered first.

It has become quite a race in recent years. Who will announce first on this season of brides and buns? Come a bout bleak February and the New York pundits stick a shivering nose outside Moriarty's saloon. The nose does not drop off. Next day the type is caroling.

"Spring in all its goldenrod glory arrived in Manhattan yesterday." I will remind you that I burst the chestnut trees into bloom in Paris a full month ago! When my Spring springs, cousin, it is sprung.

I am a bird watcher. That is the way I tell Spring. Birds are mighty foolish creatures. A good deal like column writers. They announce pring on the first day you walk out of a restaurant and forget your topcoat.

The bird I watch mainly is my budgie. I purchased this bird about a year ago. This bird is supposed to talk. That is what it says in the bird book. This bird sits around thinking and working like a congressman on his first speech. One day he ups and talks.

This is a pretty impressive claim. And I was one of the first to get in the market for such a bird. It was my idea this bird should make remarks and I would put them down in writing for the dailies.

A budgie is an Australian bird so I supposed he would speak Australian.

"I s'y, Yank, 'ave you got a bloomin' fag?"

Gradually, I figured to teach this bird to talk American. He should make comments on the weather and the state of the Yalta papers. It would be entertaining and instructive.

I would put this bird under contract. Paying off in bird seed and gravel.

People would hardly wait to buy papers to see what the budgie had to say. That is the way I figured it out.

Well, to this day, this budgie has not uttered one single, solitary word. Not a syllable.

He eats bird seed and gravel like crazy. But all he does is twitter. His twitter does not even have an Australian accent. Just a dime-a-dozen twitter. Like any sparrow.

It occurred to me that this bird might be waiting for Spring. Possibly to make the first announcement like a columnist. I thought possibly he would take a look out the window and declare: "But when shall Spring visit the moulting urn?"

"O, when shall it dawn on the night of my grave?"

This would be a dignified statement which I could publish. Giving credit naturally to the budgie.

People could think that over. It would be a sobering thought. Particularly coming from a bird that does not weigh over five or six ounces soaking wet.

It would not matter if he used an Australian accent. For it would not show in type.

It would announce that Spring was here and confound the New York columnists and their claims of Spring.

Who would listen to a columnist report Spring when they could get it from a bird?

I must say that this bird was all a-twitter today. He knows it is Spring all right. But will he say so? No bloody fear, as we say in Australia. Not this twittering bundle of feathers. This ingrate who gobbles bird seed and refuses to make a simple statement.

I do not even require original remarks from this bird. He can quote Shakespeare. He can even quote the New York columns. I am not asking for an after-dinner speech.

He does not have to be witty. I would even furnish him material. Like the story of the man who ordered a martini for his budgie.

He can simply remark: "Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking . . ."

That would be true enough. Too true.

Biggest Of Them All

Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay will be the chief speaker at Nebraska's Republican Founders Day gathering. One of the favorite stories Mr. McKay loves to tell in defense of the 'giveaway program' of the administration is to point a finger at the Lincoln Homestead Act, which went into effect on the first day of January in 1863. He looks upon it as the biggest of all 'giveaways.'

The first homestead filed upon under its provisions was taken by Dan Freeman, a soldier, who staked claim to 160 acres northwest of Beatrice on Cub creek. We knew Mr. Freeman and we knew his homestead. The land upon which he filed may not have been as fertile as the tract directly to the west, which boasted in later years of one of the finest black walnut groves in Nebraska. But Dan Freeman made sure of one thing. He had water and he had firewood at his fingertips, a consideration of some importance in those times.

The original inspiration for the Lincoln Homestead Act was to provide land for soldiers serving in the army in the Civil War. Fortunately, Uncle Sam had unlimited land at that time, land to be had for the asking. The strain would not be quite so severe today if Uncle Sam had the same amount of undeveloped land to give away. That was another day in our youth.

Apparently Secretary McKay does not recognize that things do change.

The Flowers That Bloom . . . ?

In the revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's light opera, DeWolf Hopper used to delight audiences with his rendition of a song:

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, 'Have nothing to do with the case.'"

When peach growers in Illinois, Missouri, some sections of Texas, and some other states looked out late last week upon orchards of peaches which were in bloom, they could say to Mr. Hopper:

"How right you are, brother."

Another year's hopes blasted. Another year's expectations gone. That icy mass of cold air which moved down from Arctic regions to sweep mountain states and all of the great North American plains had taken care of a lot of peaches.

The same paper which carried the news of that misfortune which befell peach growers told of a sharp criticism by the House Appropriations Committee lodged against Agriculture Secretary Benson. In passing upon Benson's budget requests, the committee said some of his policies were negligent, irresponsible and political. It accused him of foot-dragging in offering surplus stocks to foreign buyers and said administration production control programs were forcing farmers off the land.

Now that is a pretty serious charge.

By way of reply, Secretary Benson said it is time to "stop manipulating the farm program to promote partisan political purposes." He called the committee's report "political propaganda." Yet, Republican members of the committee made no attempt to file a dissenting report.

The greatest weakness of Mr. Benson's program, it has seemed to us, is that it has been a matter of arithmetic, stripped to a large degree of the very human considerations that are a part of agriculture itself. The peach grower looks out upon his orchards in bloom with a thrill of pride. Twenty-four hours later the blooms are dead, caught by a deadly freeze which even nature itself did not anticipate. The wheat grower, rising early in the morning, notes with deep satisfaction the golden sea of his ripening wheat field moving toward maturity. And three days later he discovers that black rust or some other blight has claimed it. The corn grower of this midwest—west of the Missouri—early about his chores, glances over a tall, lush field of promising corn. Yet 72 hours later it is withered and seared by the blasts of a hot wind.

Granting that arithmetic is a part of the story of agriculture, it is not all of it.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

One of the developments of an international flavor destined to affect the lives of the American people profoundly goes behind closed doors in the national capital Monday for discussion. It is President Eisenhower's request to Congress for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trading agreement program. The President is in trouble, serious trouble, but not nearly as serious as the American people may find themselves.

The bill to extend the reciprocal trading agreement program for three years already has passed the House, thanks to staunch Democratic support, much in the form desired by the President. Surprisingly, it has run head-on into stern opposition in the Senate, has been bottled up in committee for hearings of an extensive character, and now the committee goes into executive session to determine in what form to send the bill to the floor of the Senate. The news columns report that a score of amendments have been prepared, some of which largely could nullify the reciprocal trading agreement program. The issue is said to be close, with the friends of the high tariff principles highly articulate and everlastingly busy. Mr. Eisenhower can be assured of Democratic support which he badly needs, but there is nowhere the certainty of that support which existed when Congress began its session.

The President has dedicated his administration to an expanding market abroad for American goods. Both America's giant industrial plant and its agriculture can and have been producing more than can be consumed by the American people. Agriculture is not alone in its agony of producing in surplus. Our industrial plant, the greatest in the world, operating at capacity, keeping its workers employed, has the capacity to turn out more than can be consumed here at home. But the clamor for protection against foreign imports has been growing in many facets of industry and it is from these industries that the members of the Senate have been hearing.

The amazing thing is that there has been a remarkable shift toward freer trade among businessmen themselves. Fortune Magazine discloses. In an article released Monday, Fortune says that a survey conducted by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology covering about three-quarters of all American companies with more than 10,000 employees, as well as a representative sample of smaller firms with 100 or more employees, shows that 38 per cent favor lower tariffs, 31 per cent would leave them at present levels, five per cent would raise tariffs, four per cent refuse to generalize and 22 per cent frankly said they did not know. In 1939 Fortune, conducting its own poll, found 31.5 per cent in favor of higher tariffs, 34.5 per cent supporting the existing levels and only 19.4 per cent, of whom nearly half expressed reservations, wanting tariffs lowered. That is an amazing shift in industry itself at the top level and suggests that the heads of American industry have been doing some thinking. Apparently their thoughts have not caught up with Congress.

Those who would sell must be willing to buy. In the field of international trade, it is as simple as that. We can close and bolt the doors against commodities produced abroad, reserving the American market exclusively for ourselves, and in the end we will find the factories darkened and long lines of unemployed contributing to the soup lines. Once before we made a mistake and we paid for it in the savage fruits of a depression. These next few days in Washington will be important to the health and the happiness of the American people.

to possess many of the qualities of the perverse little capricious Cercopithecidae, not the least of which is his utter unpredictability. . . .

With April just a flip of the calendar away, in among the spring bouquet is a perennial posy that rates in popularity right along with ragweed, Russian thistles and poison oak. It's assessment time, coming to full bloom again with an April 20 deadline hovering like a threatening cloud on an otherwise sunny springtime horizon. . . .

County Assessor Loren Hill who checks on which Clay Countians own what and how much that "what" is theoretically worth, will apparently have a minor phenomenon on his hands—and his books—before the 1955 season is over. First reports from his helpers indicate that valuations for household goods will take a decided upward swing over last year's figures.

"Wouldn't it be strange," marveled the News, "if, with no threats or Operation Honesty before the property owners, they'd assess higher than a year ago?"

Another Nebraskan believes in the direct cards-on-the-table approach to the same subject, too. In a letter to Sarpy County Assessor Ernest (otherwise known as "Bill") Nielsen, Jack Stepp just dumped the whole thing right in the county official's lap. And in so doing, slipped out of the responsibility himself as lightly as a monkey skipping from limb to limb. . . .

"I want your opinion, Bill," wrote the side-stepping Stepp, "regarding musical instruments. I have an old hand organ that I brought over from France in 1919. . . . In Paris I met a frog (Frenchman) jockeying a monkey and hand organ. Bill, he was sure coining money—I mean the monkey. He siphoned coins from the pockets faster'n the GI's clicked their eyeballs at the mademoiselles. And Bub, that's fast! I thought I should bring something back, so I got the gold-rimmed monkey for four francs (98 cents), and Frenchy threw the organ in."

"Well, sir, Bill, Mr. Monkey, the son-of-a-gun, got sea-sick and died. We buried him at sea. I turned the organ crank at his funeral and I played 'I went to the animal fair.' Now, Bill, I've got the organ and can we make a special appointment to appraise same for tax purposes?"

"On the other hand, maybe it's better the monkey checked out as the tax on a monkey might be too high, and I'd have to forfeit even the organ, and I wouldn't wish to block even a few pennies as taxes for old Sarpy. . . ."

"I tried to claim income tax loss on the monkey, but the Federal said I'd have to produce as evidence a monkey carcass. And where could I find one of these? Better forget it, huh, Bill?"

"P.S. I have it in mothballs—I mean the organ. The gee string is a little off-key, but the haw string is o.k. and good enough for any future monkey."

Sen. George A Force For Big 4 Meeting

WASHINGTON — The backstage story of how the White House at first disagreed, later agreed, with Sen. George of Georgia over a Big 4 conference is indicative of the jumbled way in which important steps toward world peace sometimes are taken.

It was no accident that Sen. George made his statement urging a Big 4 conference. He has been thinking about this for some time. The senator lost a boy in the last war, and has been telling friends privately that there's no alternative to war save diplomacy. To that end he got an assurance from John Foster Dulles that after the defense pact with Chiang Kai-Shek was ratified, Dulles would work for a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

Accordingly, the secretary of state took off for the Far East talking about peace and promising a cease-fire. He came back warning of war and recommending the defense of Quemoy and Matsui.

As a result, the venerable senator from Georgia has been disturbed. He doesn't like the direction in which U.S. foreign policy is turning.

So, privately, Sen. George sounded out Secretary Dulles about a Big 4 conference and got some encouragement. Dulles didn't say yes and didn't say no. His friends said later that what he really had in mind was a foreign ministers meeting, not an actual Big 4 conference including Premier Bulganin.

A-Bomb Worry

George also had a private talk with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, only top cabinet adviser who is still opposed to a military showdown in the Far East. Other cabinet advisers dealing with foreign affairs have now lined up with Dulles in favor of a stiff Far Eastern policy, even preventive war.

They are definitely prepared to use tactical atomic bombs against military targets on the Chinese mainland — a step which many believe would line all Asia solidly against us. Congress has now given the president authority to take this drastic step, and Sen. George was the man who insisted that the resolution of authority be passed in record time. Now that the authority has been given, however, George is not happy about gathering signs that the atom bomb may be used.

MARQUIS CHILDS

A Calm View Of Big Government

WASHINGTON — One of the characteristics of this capital is the way in which, regardless of the party in power, bureaus, commissions and agencies blossom like the flowers in the spring and take root as hardy perennials. If you dial the number Executive 3-3262, a polite voice answers, "Inter-Governmental Relations."

The specialty of the Eisenhower Administration is to make at least one commission grow where none grew before and that helps to explain "Inter-Governmental Relations."

In March of 1953 President Eisenhower recommended a Commission on Inter-Governmental Relations to study the tangled relationships between federal, state and local governments and recommended changes which would eliminate overlapping and duplication. The commission as approved by congress was to report by March 1, 1955, and go out of business.

It was heavily loaded with Republicans and southern democrats who would like to cut the federal government back at least to the era of the founding fathers with the Chief Executive filling the genial role of a limited monarch gracing such ceremonies as the opening of dams which would be built, it is hardly necessary to add, by private enterprise. Because their report was not completed Congress extended the life of the commission until the end of June. There is a paid staff of 30, complete with information director, and the expectation is that if they do not get a second renewal, another similar commission will be appointed to carry on the survey of Inter-governmental relations.

Several of the commission members are defeated or retired office holders, among them Former Senator Guy Gordon of Oregon and Former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado. Others, such as Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Val Peterson, director of civil defense, are preoccupied with exacting full-time jobs. Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia and Allan Shivers of Texas are members, as are Senators Andrew Schoepel of Kansas and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

What apparently most members of the commission do not know is that one of their number has written a book which is an objective, careful analysis of the whole problem they are studying. Professor William Anderson of the University of Minnesota, whose "The Nation and the States, Rivals or Partners?" has just been published by the University of Minnesota press, is a long-time authority in the field.

He concludes that the case against "bigness" and "centralization" in the federal government has not been proved. Suggesting that a lot of the outcry about "centralization" comes from those opposed to all government activity, the author says of this philosophy:

"It pictures 'Big Government' inexorably to 'Paternalism,' 'Socialism,' 'The Welfare State' and Dictatorship, and it revives the discredited Shibboleth of 'States Rights.' It professes loyalty to the constitution by the people, but seems to forget that the adoption of that constitution by the people, with its provisions for a strong national government, was one of the greatest acts of constructive republican centralization the world has ever witnessed."

The holders of this philosophy certainly think of themselves as the most loyal and patriotic of Americans, and the most strongly opposed to communism, yet they favor measures to weaken the national government and its popular support, measures that the communists would probably be glad to see carried out in the United States."

Professor Anderson reached his conclusions after a long-time study of the role of the federal government and the states. He has found that the grants-in-aid from Washington to the states, so frequently attacked, have not measurably increased federal control over state governments. While it has had some equalizing effect, as between states with low per capita income and those with high per capita income, this is uneven and insignificant.

Professor Anderson's fellow members of the commission on inter-governmental relations will object that this is merely his own viewpoint, and that is true. But it is also true that no other commission member has given such long and careful thought to every aspect of the problem.

Angry critics have recently charged that commission reports are being used to spread propaganda justifying the dismantling of the federal government. That cry came in the wake of the Hoover Commission report on federal lending agencies. There is a nice question as to whether these reports are made in a spirit of objectivity or whether they are colored by political bias. If the commission on Inter-Governmental Relations wants to get a careful, thorough, documented study, they can buy Professor Anderson's book for $3.75. And perhaps after they read it they will decide that they can shut up shop.

A LENTEN MEDITATION

Christian Yardstick Of Right, Wrong

By DR. CHARLES PATTERSON
Chairman, Dept. of Philosophy
University of Nebraska

A student in our University had become very much disturbed over the activities of a local political organization. In class sessions he has vigorously denounced them because of their objective and the methods which they employed to achieve it. Then came election day, and much to the surprise of the professor in charge of the class, this student was observed to be one of the paid watchers at the polls for the very organization he had criticized.

When asked by his professor for an explanation of his conduct, the student replied: "Well, I needed twenty dollars I got for that job pretty badly, and anyhow, there really isn't any right or wrong any more, is there?"

The case of this student is no isolated instance of the confusion which prevails at the present time concerning the meaning of right and wrong. In view of this situation we may well ask ourselves whether the teaching of Christianity now being emphasized in Lenten devotions can throw any light on the problem.

What, if anything, does Christianity have to say about the nature of goodness? Does it speak to our day and age concerning the individual and social problems we face? At this season of the year, it is appropriate that we ponder these questions and that we do so with an open mind regardless of any attitude we may have held either for or against the principles of the Christian faith.

Christianity is an affirmation of faith. It makes no attempt to prove the ultimate premises upon which its doctrine rests. There is nothing about this fact which should be at all disturbing to any one of us. Every field of knowledge must accept as its starting point something which cannot be proved. Even the logician must assume that the principles of proof are reliable. He cannot do otherwise without contradicting himself.

Faith is an essential element that is implied in all thinking. The important point to consider is the object toward which our faith is directed. Does it provide a sound basis for our living as well as an explanation for our problems?

The Christian faith includes, among other things, a belief in an objective standard of goodness. It recognizes a right and a wrong that are something more than the arbitrary decision of an individual or group of persons. From the Christian point of view, the standard of goodness by which the worth of an individual life can be measured is not something which human beings create through a projection of their own wishes and desires.

Its validity does not depend on what persons may think about it. In other words, instead of the standard being judged by men, it is men who are judged by the standards.

No article of the Christian faith could have any greater significance for our day and age than this one. The crisis of our time is essentially one of moral standards. Everyone realizes — in his saner moments, at least — that moral principles of some kind are an absolute necessity if mankind is to survive at all. Even though man should perish at some future date, the moral standards by which he lives constitute the only valid measure of the worth and significance of the years he does have.

But where can one find a standard of goodness that is really dependable, one that will hold true regardless of what any individual or group of persons may think about it? Without some standard of this kind, all valid distinctions between right and wrong are bound to disappear.

Obviously, the moral codes which are developed by human beings are not adequate for our needs. Any system of morals devised by interested persons can be worth no more than the individuals who make it. It can always be opposed by those who have different tastes and who prefer a doctrine of ethics that is in harmony with their particular interests and desires. Besides, anything that man makes, he can also unmake or set aside whenever it suits his interests to do so. If there is such a thing as a righteous cause in the world today, something that is not merely different from the causes to which other groups subscribe but better than competing standards, it must be that it more closely resembles that supreme pattern by which all the others must be judged.

Because faith affirms a standard of goodness that is superior to all men and all nations, it stands in direct opposition to all those who believe they are entitled to anything they want so long as they have the power to get it.

The standard of righteousness to which Christian faith subscribes cannot be identified with expediency nor does it coincide with the selfish desires of a nation of any group of persons. It transcends even the principle of enlightened selfishness which means that an individual is interested in the welfare of others only to the extent that he gets something out of it for himself.

The basis of the Christian standard of morality is to be found in what the Judeo-Christian tradition has always referred to as the righteousness of God. The ancient

GRANT US, THE GOOD
King Zeus, grant us the good whether we pray for it or not, but evil keep from us though we pray for it.
(Formula quoted by Plato)

Jew believed this righteousness was disclosed in the relationship which existed between Yahweh and the Hebrew people. Christianity finds the righteousness of God disclosed through the earthly career of Jesus of Nazareth. His life of service to His fellow men and His complete obedience to the will of God furnish the supreme example of the way men should live. What he did for others was performed for their sake, and not for Himself. His life was an illustration of disinterested love for human beings. Here, according to the Christian faith, do we find perfection in a human life, and this is the norm or standard toward which we may aspire.

Christianity is a faith, but it may well be the one and only faith that is adequate for human living — one that can provide a solution to the world's problems.

Not Me!

Holdrege, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have been expecting the big glowing report of the United States Public Health Service as to the "benefits" for the fluoridation of Beatrice city water in regard to reducing tooth decay in children, and as expected, it came today with the usual front page publicity.

A dental survey of this type means exactly nothing. USPHS officials, themselves, conducted the survey.

The "survey" was made at this time in an attempt to influence the voters of Beatrice, who will vote April 5 on whether or not to resume fluoridation, which was stopped by injunction last fall when citizens petitioned the city council to stop it. Hundreds of Beatrice residents had been forced to haul their water into town from outside before fluoridation was stopped, and many now say that if fluoridation is resumed, they will put down their own well, or move from the city.

I drank naturally fluoridated water (not the insecticide, sodium fluoride, which is used to artificially fluoridate water) the first 8 years of my life, when I lived at Galesburg, Illinois, and my teeth and those of my brother broke down in our twenties and early thirties. Our teeth were brittle, malformed, would not hold fillings, and had a tendency to split lengthwise up into the roots. Of course the fluoridators would not be interested in my experience with fluorine.

Drain On Treasury

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Just recently a majority of our state senators voted down a proposal to give those on relief rolls $2 per month for recreation. Most of the funds for assistance come from head, liquor and cigarette taxes and there is a surplus at the end of each biennium. It is then transferred into the general fund and put out mostly for raises in salaries for most of our elective officials, who are generally pretty well taken care of. But the senators deny those on the relief rolls a few crumbs of bread a month from the funds collected for that purpose.

One senator said it wasn't needed and would be a drain on the state treasury. I wonder if all the salary raises won't be a drain on the treasury.

BEN S. KECK

Liquor Tax

Ainsworth, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It has just come to my attention that on an effort to introduce a bill in our state Legislature proposing a slight increase in the tax on beer and hard liquor, the motion was lost because eight senators voted against it and 22 (of whom two had been excused from attendance) refused to vote.

The slight increase proposed by that bill would still leave Nebraska with a lower tax on that stuff than the national average.

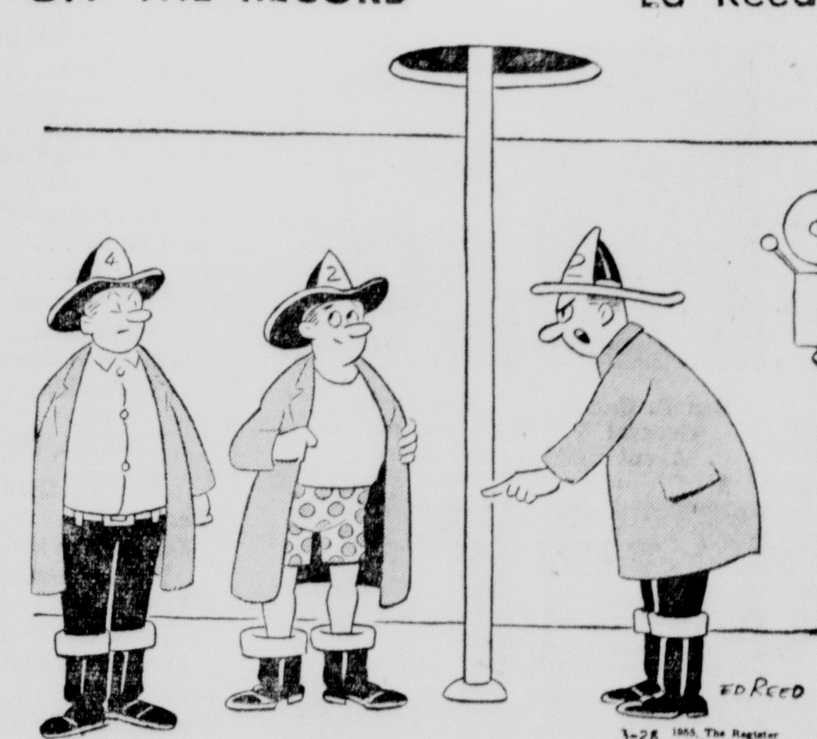

In the face of the need of increased revenue, and of the increase made on almost every other property and commodity, such obvious subservience to the beer and liquor lobby calls for action by all citizens who have the public welfare at heart.

I wish to register my personal condemnation for all those senators who voted against this reasonable measure, and especially for those senators present who refused to vote at all. I have already directly addressed the senator from my district.

'Imperative' Troops Remain In Germany

OMAHA — (AP) — Under present conditions it is "imperative" that friendly troops remain in Germany, German Ambassador Heinz Krekeler said Sunday.

"We know as they do that they are there for the protection of all of us," he said in an address prepared at the annual Alpha Sigma Nu (honorary Jesuit fraternity) lecture at Creighton University here.

"We in Germany have realized that we cannot exist without closely cooperating with the other free nations of Europe," he continued. "The entire concept of our national life and policy has changed. This is an adjustment we have had to make and I think we have made it successfully. We have come to understand that community power as Secretary Dulles said, the consolidation of our resources is the first fact of life for us."

Strength Apparent

Even though the European Defense Community plan was rejected, he said it was then that the "real strength of the movement toward consolidation became apparent," and the present set of Paris treaties was shaped.

The ambassador devoted most of his address to these treaties.

Of the treaty concerned with termination of the occupation regime in the federal Republic of Germany, he said sovereignty is "an inherent attribute of any nation. . . . The treaty is that there can be no partnership except among equals and that only a free member of the community is able to give his best for the common effort."

With reference to North Atlantic treaty Organization membership, he commented that although "rearmament, as such is highly unpopular in Germany," the Germans are ready to accept the "obligations that go with this new partnership." But they do it in a sober mood because bearing arms is not an occasion for jubilation among the German people.

Serves Collaboration

He termed the Western European Union treaty one designed to "serve not only the interests of collective self defense, but collaboration in economic, social and cultural matters as well."

"I need only mention the importance of raising by common effort out standard of living in Europe; for a high standard of living is a most effective safeguard against Communist infiltration and subversion."

Citing the adjustments the German people have had to make to "the realities of the present day situation," he commented:

"That we can make these adjustments of our own free will, I think, an indication of foresightedness and strength of character."

He termed the treaties "good and practical instruments" to serve the purpose of preserving "our common western heritage."

Water Tower Gives Way To Diesel Age

Lincoln Star Special
SCRIBNER, Neb. — Another Scribner landmark has given way to modern transportation.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad water tower has been torn down. And workmen are now razing the pumping station and water treating plant.

Scribner first became a water station for trains in 1874. The wooden tanks first used for water storage had to be replaced about every 30 years.

The tanks, which were just torn down, were about 30 years old. It has been two years since it was used for oil-burning diesels have replaced the steam engines.

The treating plant now being dismantled was constructed when it was found that Scribner water was too "hard" and required chemical treatment.

The first of the railroad facilities to disappear was a coal shed which was torn down about 28 years ago. The round house which housed equipment used on the daily Scribner-Oakdale run was razed about 15 years ago.

Air Force Independent Recruiting Program Hailed For Effectiveness

By VERN HAUGLAND

OMAHA — The Air Force's new independent recruiting program has been hailed as much more effective than the recently discarded system of recruiting jointly with the Army — and only about half as expensive.

The Air Force Assn. (AFA) says the program indicates that voluntary enlistments can become a "far more important factor in solving the military manpower problem than has heretofore been realized."

And the backbone of this new look in recruiting, says AFA, is a "family approach" — visits by Air Force recruiters at the homes of prospective enlistees.

The AFA, composed of Air Force veterans and other citizens interested in air power development, made public at a celebration here of the ninth anniversary of the strategic Air Command a recruiting summary sent to the House Armed Services Subcommittee.

James H. Straubel, AFA executive director, told Rep. Brooks (D-La.), subcommittee chairman, that:

1. Joint Army-Air Force recruiting with the Army as the executive agency, was able to achieve only 83.7 per cent of the Air Force goal during the fiscal year ending last June 30 — 140,605 voluntary enlistments out of a goal of 167,907.

2. In the first eight months of existence, the independent Air Force recruiting system has obtained 130,645 voluntary enlistments, an average of 16,330 a month as against the monthly average of 16,076 needed to reach the current fiscal year's goal of 192,920.

The Air Force actually had to "shut off the intake" in January and February in order to permit a more even flow of recruits through training centers, Straubel said.

"A relatively even flow of recruits, achieved for the first time during the past eight months, has resulted in better training, better utilization of manpower, and a saving in money," the AFA official wrote.

"Also, Air Force instructors report that the quality of voluntary enlistees is now higher than it was under the joint recruiting system."

Straubel said defense department and budget bureau figures show that the cost for each voluntary air force recruit under joint recruiting in the last year of that program was $105.13.

In the first six months of separate recruiting the cost was reduced 21 per cent, to $82.65 for each Air Force recruit, he said.

And in the same six months the Army's cost per voluntary recruit was $149, or 34 per cent more than the Air Force average, he said. The cost for the Army under the Selective Service system, during the year ending last June 30, was given at $147.73 for each inductee.

"Thus the Air Force is able to obtain voluntary enlistments at almost half of what it costs to draft men into the Army," Straubel said.

"Savings under the voluntary enlistment program are even greater than these cold statistics indicate."

"The Air Force obtains a voluntary enlistee for at least a four year tour of duty."

"The Army obtains a draftee for only two years duty, and the Army experiences a much lower reenlistment rate."

The AFA report pointed out that the most important Air Force voluntary enlistees are those with prior military service, because they do not have to go through the expensive basic training process.

It said that during the last year of joint recruiting the Air Force obtained only 15,040 prior-service enlistees — 64 per cent of the goal. In the first eight months of the current fiscal year the Air Force has averaged 2,009 such enlistees a month.

RECREATION PLANS TALKED FOR LAKE

TRENTON, Neb. — The Chamber of Commerce has big plans for Swanson Lake near Trenton.

Ray Smith, chamber president, said the long-range plans for setting up summer recreation facilities at the lake began last week.

The initial project involves construction of a rock boat ramp on the south shore. A group of floating buoys are planned to enclose a wading and swimming area.

"Then we have about 25 picnic tables to put on the south shore," explained Forrest Quick, project chairman. "All the labor for the work is volunteered by men in Trenton and Stratton who are anxious to begin a regular recreation season at the lake."

The building of shelterhouses is included in the plans for the next few years. Permanent construction, however, depends on the future water level of the lake.

"There is a lot of work we would like to do," Quick said, "but we will have to do it as we get permission from the government and based on the money we can accumulate."

"A great deal of interest has been shown by boating, swimming and water skiing enthusiasts," he went on. "We hope to have boat racing, probably about July 4, but final arrangements with a racing association have not been completed."

The lake was formed by Trenton Dam.

Fair Weather To Bring Back Spring

Fair weather is expected for most of the country Monday except for scattered snow flurries in the mountainous sections of New York, New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont. Some showers are forecast for the Pacific Northwest and in extreme southern Texas. Warmer weather is due for most of the states east of the Rockies, with little temperature change for the western part of the country. (AP Wire-photo Map.)

Biggest Of Them All

Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay will be the chief speaker at Nebraska's Republican Founders Day gathering. One of the favorite stories Mr. McKay loves to tell in defense of the "giveaway program" of the administration is to point a finger at the Lincoln Homestead Act, which went into effect on the first day of January in 1863. He looks upon it as the biggest of all "giveaways."

The first homestead filed upon under its provisions was taken by Dan Freeman, a soldier, who staked claim to 160 acres northwest of Beatrice on Cub creek. We knew Mr. Freeman and we knew his homestead. The land upon which he filed may not have been as fertile as the tract directly to the west, which boasted in later years of one of the finest black walnut groves in Nebraska. But Dan Freeman made sure of one thing. He had water and he had firewood at his fingertips, a consideration of some importance in those times.

The original inspiration for the Lincoln Homestead Act was to provide land for soldiers serving in the army in the Civil War. Fortunately, Uncle Sam had unlimited land at that time, land to be had for the asking. The strain would not be quite so severe today if Uncle Sam had the same amount of undeveloped land to give away. That was another day in our youth.

Apparently Secretary McKay does not recognize that things do change.

The Flowers That Bloom . . . ?

In the revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's light opera, DeWolf Hopper used to delight audiences with his rendition of a song:

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, 'Have nothing to do with the case.'"

When peach growers in Illinois, Missouri, some sections of Texas, and some other states looked out late last week upon orchards of peaches which were in bloom, they could say to Mr. Hopper:

"How right you are, brother."

Another year's hopes blasted. Another year's expectations gone. That icy mass of cold air which moved down from Arctic regions to sweep mountain states and all of the great North American plains had taken care of a lot of peaches.

The same paper which carried the news of that misfortune which befell peach growers told of a sharp criticism by the House Appropriations Committee lodged against Agriculture Secretary Benson. In passing upon Benson's budget requests, the committee said some of his policies were negligent, irresponsible and political. It accused him of foot-dragging in offering surplus stocks to foreign buyers and said administration production control programs were forcing farmers off the land.

Now that is a pretty serious charge.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

One of the developments of an international flavor destined to affect the lives of the American people profoundly goes behind closed doors in the national capital Monday for discussion. It is President Eisenhower's request to Congress for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trading agreement program. The President is in trouble, serious trouble, but not nearly as serious as the American people may find themselves.

The bill to extend the reciprocal trading agreement program for three years already has passed the House, thanks to staunch Democratic support, much in the form desired by the President. Surprisingly, it has run head-on into stern opposition in the Senate, has been bottled up in committee for hearings of an extensive character, and now the committee goes into executive session to determine in what form to send the bill to the floor of the Senate. The news columns report that a score of amendments have been prepared, some of which largely could nullify the reciprocal trading agreement program. The issue is said to be close, with the friends of the high tariff principles highly articulate and everlastingly busy. Mr. Eisenhower can be assured of Democratic support which he badly needs, but there is nowhere the certainty of that support which existed when Congress began its session.

The President has dedicated his administration to an expanding market abroad for American goods. Both America's giant industrial plant and its agriculture can and have been producing more than can be consumed by the American people. Agriculture is not alone in its agony of producing in surplus. Our industrial plant, the greatest in the world, operating at capacity, keeping its workers employed, has the capacity to turn out more than can be consumed here at home. But the clamor for protection against foreign imports has been growing in many facets of industry and it is from these industries that the members of the Senate have been hearing.

The amazing thing is that there has been a remarkable shift toward freer trade among businessmen themselves. Fortune Magazine discloses. In an article released Monday, Fortune says that a survey conducted by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology covering about three-quarters of all American companies with more than 10,000 employees, as well as a representative sample of smaller firms with 100 or more employees, shows that 38 per cent favor lower tariffs, 31 per cent would leave them at present levels, five per cent would raise tariffs, four per cent refuse to generalize and 22 per cent frankly said they did not know. In 1939 Fortune, conducting its own poll, found 31.5 per cent in favor of higher tariffs, 34.5 per cent supporting the existing levels and only 19.4 per cent, of whom nearly half expressed reservations, wanting tariffs lowered. That is an amazing shift in industry itself at the top level and suggests that the heads of American industry have been doing some thinking. Apparently their thoughts have not caught up with Congress.

Those who would sell must be willing to buy. In the field of international trade, it is as simple as that. We can close and bolt the doors against commodities produced abroad, reserving the American market exclusively for ourselves, and in the end we will find the factories darkened and long lines of unemployed contributing to the soup lines. Once before we made a mistake and we paid for it in the savage fruits of a depression. These next few days in Washington will be important to the health and the happiness of the American people.

Sen. George A Force For Big 4 Meeting

WASHINGTON — The backstage story of how the White House at first disagreed, later agreed, with Sen. George of Georgia over a Big 4 conference is indicative of the jumbled way in which important steps toward world peace sometimes are taken.

It was no accident that Sen. George made his statement urging a Big 4 conference. He has been thinking about this for some time. The senator lost a boy in the last war, and has been telling friends privately that there's no alternative to war save diplomacy. To that end he got an assurance from John Foster Dulles that after the defense pact with Chiang Kai-Shek was ratified, Dulles would work for a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

Accordingly, the secretary of state took off for the Far East talking about peace and promising a cease-fire. He came back warning of war and recommending the defense of Quemoy and Matsu.

As a result, the venerable senator from Georgia has been disturbed. He doesn't like the direction in which U.S. foreign policy is turning.

So, privately, Sen. George sounded out Secretary Dulles about a Big 4 conference and got some encouragement. Dulles didn't say yes and didn't say no. His friends said later that what he really had in mind was a foreign ministers meeting, not an actual Big 4 conference including Premier Bulganin.

A-Bomb Worry

George also had a private talk with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, only top cabinet adviser who is still opposed to a military showdown in the Far East. Other cabinet advisers dealing with foreign affairs have now lined up with Dulles in favor of a stiff Far Eastern policy, even preventive war.

They are definitely prepared to use tactical atomic bombs against military targets on the Chinese mainland — a step which many believe would line all Asia solidly against us. Congress has now given the president authority to take this drastic step, and Sen. George was the man who insisted that the resolution of authority be passed in record time. Now that the authority has been given, however, George is not happy about gathering signs that the atom bomb may be used.

MARQUIS CHILDS

A Calm View Of Big Government

WASHINGTON — One of the characteristics of this capital is the way in which, regardless of the party in power, bureaus, commissions and agencies blossom like the flowers in the spring and take root as hardy perennials. If you dial the number Executive 3-3262, a polite voice answers, "Inter-Governmental Relations."

The specialty of the Eisenhower Administration is to make at least one commission grow where none grew before and that helps to explain "Inter-Governmental Relations."

In March of 1953 President Eisenhower recommended a Commission on Inter-Governmental Relations to study the tangled relationships between federal, state and local governments and recommended changes which would eliminate overlapping and duplication. The commission as approved by congress was to report by March 1, 1955, and go out of business.

It was heavily loaded with Republicans and southern democrats who would like to cut the federal government back at least to the era of the founding fathers with the Chief Executive filling the general role of a limited monarch gracing such ceremonies as the opening of dams which would be built, it is hardly necessary to add, by private enterprise. Because their report was not completed Congress extended the life of the commission until the end of June. There is a paid staff of 30, complete with information director, and the expectation is that if they do not get a second renewal, another similar commission will be appointed to carry on the survey of Inter-governmental relations.

Several of the commission members are defeated or retired office holders, among them Former Senator Guy Gordon of Oregon and Former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado. Others, such as Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Val Peterson, director of civil defense, are preoccupied with exacting full-time jobs. Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia and Allan Shivers of Texas are members, as are Senators Andrew Schoepel of Kansas and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

What apparently most members of the commission do not know is that one of their number has written a book which is an objective, careful analysis of the whole problem they are studying. Professor William Anderson of the University of Minnesota, whose "The Nation and the States, Rivals or Partners?" has just been published by the University of Minnesota press, is a long-time authority in the field.

He concludes that the case against "bigness" and "centralization" in the federal government has not been proved. Suggesting that a lot of the outcry about "centralization" comes from those opposed to all government activity, the author says of this philosophy:

"It pictures 'Big Government' inexorably to 'Paternalism,' 'Socialism,' 'The Welfare State' and Dictatorship, and it revives the discredited Shibboleth of 'States Rights.' It professes loyalty to the constitution by the people, but seems to forget that the adoption of that constitution by the people, with its provisions for a strong national government, was one of the greatest acts of constructive republican centralization the world has ever witnessed."

"The holders of this philosophy certainly think of themselves as the most loyal and patriotic of Americans, and the most strongly opposed to communism, yet they favor measures to weaken the national government and its popular support, measures that the communists would probably be glad to see carried out in the United States."

Professor Anderson reached his conclusions after a long-time study of the role of the federal government and the states. He has found that the grants-in-aid from Washington to the states, so frequently attacked, have not measurably increased federal control over state governments. While it has had some equalizing effect, as between states with low per capita income and those with high per capita income, this is uneven and insignificant.

Professor Anderson's fellow members of the commission on inter-governmental relations will object that this is merely his own viewpoint, and that is true. But it is also true that no other commission member has given such long and careful thought to every aspect of the problem.

Angry critics have recently charged that commission reports are being used to spread propaganda justifying the dismantling of the federal government. That cry came in the wake of the Hoover Commission report on federal lending agencies. There is a nice question as to whether these reports are made in a spirit of objectivity or whether they are colored by political bias. If the commission on Inter-Governmental Relations wants to get a careful, thorough, documented study, they can buy Professor Anderson's book for $3.75. And perhaps after they read it they will decide that they can shut up shop.

A LENTEN MEDITATION

Christian Yardstick Of Right, Wrong

By DR. CHARLES PATTERSON
Chairman, Dept. of Philosophy
University of Nebraska

A student in our University had become very much disturbed over the activities of a local political organization. In class sessions he has vigorously denounced them because of their objective and the methods which they employed to achieve it. Then came election day, and much to the surprise of the professor in charge of the class, this student was observed to be one of the paid watchers at the polls for the very organization he had criticized.

When asked by his professor for an explanation of his conduct, the student replied: "Well, I needed twenty dollars I got for that job pretty badly, and anyhow, there really isn't any right or wrong any more, is there?"

The case of this student is no isolated instance of the confusion which prevails at the present time concerning the meaning of right and wrong. In view of this situation we may well ask ourselves whether the teaching of Christianity now being emphasized in Lenten devotions can throw any light on the problem.

What, if anything, does Christianity have to say about the nature of goodness? Does it speak to our day and age concerning the individual and social problems we face? At this season of the year, it is appropriate that we ponder these questions and that we do so with an open mind regardless of any attitude we may have held either for or against the principles of the Christian faith.

Christianity is an affirmation of faith. It makes no attempt to prove the ultimate premises upon which its doctrine rests. There is nothing about this fact which should be at all disturbing to any one of us. Every field of knowledge must accept as its starting point something which cannot be proved. Even the logician must assume that the principles of proof are reliable. He cannot do otherwise without contradicting himself.

Faith is an essential element that is implied in all thinking. The important point to consider is the object toward which our faith is directed. Does it provide a sound basis for our living as well as an explanation for our problems? The Christian faith includes, among other things, a belief in an objective standard of goodness. It recognizes a right and a wrong that are something more than the arbitrary decision of an individual or group of persons. From the Christian point of view, the standard of goodness by which the worth of an individual life can be measured is not something which human beings create through a projection of their own wishes and desires.

Its validity does not depend on what persons may think about it. In other words, instead of the standard being judged by men, it is men who are judged by the standards.

No article of the Christian faith could have any greater significance for our day and age than this one. The crisis of our time is essentially one of moral standards. Everyone realizes — in his saner moments, at least — that moral principles of some kind are an absolute necessity if mankind is to survive at all. Even though man should perish at some future date, the moral standards by which he lives constitute the only valid measure of the worth and significance of the years he does have.

But where can one find a standard of goodness that is really dependable, one that will hold true regardless of what any individual or group of persons may think about it? Without some standard of this kind, all valid distinctions between right and wrong are bound to disappear.

Obviously, the moral codes which are developed by human beings are not adequate for our needs. Any system of morals devised by interested persons can be worth no more than the individuals who make it. It can always be opposed by those who have different tastes and who prefer a doctrine of ethics that is in harmony with their particular interests and desires. Besides, anything that man makes, he can also unmake or set aside whenever it suits his interests to do so. If there is such a thing as a righteous cause in the world today, something that is not merely different from the causes to which other groups subscribe but better than competing standards, it must be that it more closely resembles that supreme pattern by which all the others must be judged.

Because faith affirms a standard of goodness that is superior to all men and all nations, it stands in direct opposition to all those who believe they are entitled to what they want so long as they have the power to get it.

The standard of righteousness to which Christian faith subscribes cannot be identified with expediency nor does it coincide with the selfish desires of a nation or any group of persons. It transcends even the principle of enlightened selfishness which means that an individual is interested in the welfare of others only to the extent that he gets something out of it for himself.

The basis of the Christian standard of morality is to be found in what the Judeo-Christian tradition has always referred to as the righteousness of God. The ancient

GRANT US THE GOOD
King Zeus, grant us the good whether we pray for it or not, but evil keep from us though we pray for it.
(Formula quoted by Plato)

Jew believed this righteousness was disclosed in the relationship which existed between Yahweh and the Hebrew people. Christianity finds the righteousness of God disclosed through the earthly career of Jesus of Nazareth. His life of service to His fellow men and His complete obedience to the will of God furnish the supreme example of the way men should live. What he did for others was performed for their sake, and not for Himself. His life was an illustration of disinterested love for human beings. Here, according to the Christian faith, do we find perfection in a human life, and this is the norm or standard toward which we may aspire.

Christianity is a faith, but it may well be the one and only faith that is adequate for human living — one that can provide a solution to the world's problems.

Not Me!

Holdrege, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have been expecting the big glowing report of the United States Public Health Service as to the "benefits" for the fluoridation of Beatrice city water in regard to reducing tooth decay in children, and as expected, it came today with the usual front page publicity.

A dental survey of this type means exactly nothing. USPHS officials, themselves, conducted the survey.

The "survey" was made at this time in an attempt to influence the voters of Beatrice, who will vote April 5 on whether or not to resume fluoridation, which was stopped by injunction last fall when citizens petitioned the city council to stop it. Hundreds of Beatrice residents had been forced to haul their water into town from outside before fluoridation was stopped, and many now say that if fluoridation is resumed, they will put down their own well, or move from the city.

I drank naturally fluoridated water (not the insecticide, sodium fluoride, which is used to artificially fluoridate water) the first 8 years of my life, when I lived at Galesburg, Illinois, and my teeth and those of my brother broke down in our twenties and early thirties. Our teeth were brittle, malformed, would not hold fillings, and had a tendency to split lengthwise up into the roots. Of course the fluoridators would not be interested in my experience with fluoride.

Drain On Treasury

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Just recently a majority of our state senators voted down a proposal to give those on relief rolls $2 per month for recreation. Most of the funds for assistance come from head, liquor and cigarette taxes and there is a surplus at the end of each biennium. It is then transferred into the general fund and put out mostly for raises in salaries for most of our elective officials, who are generally pretty well taken care of. But the senators deny those on the relief rolls a few crumbs of bread a month from the funds collected for that purpose.

One senator said it wasn't needed and would be a drain on the state treasury. I wonder if all the salary raises won't be a drain on the treasury.

BEN S. KECK
Ainsworth, Neb.

Liquor Tax

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It has just come to my attention that on an effort to introduce a bill in our state Legislature proposing a slight increase in the tax on beer and hard liquor, the motion was lost because eight senators voted against it and 22 of whom two had been excused from attendance) refused to vote. The slight increase proposed by that bill would still leave Nebraska with a lower tax on that stuff than the national average.

In the face of the need of increased revenue, and of the increase made on almost every other property and commodity, such obvious subservience to the beer and liquor lobby calls for action by all citizens who have the public welfare at heart.

I wish to register my personal condemnation for all those senators who voted against this reasonable measure, and especially for those senators present who refused to vote at all. I have already directly addressed the senator from my district.

'Imperative' Troops Remain In Germany

OMAHA — (AP) — Under present conditions it is "imperative" that friendly troops remain in Germany, German Ambassador Heinz Krekeler said Sunday.

"We know as they do that they are there for the protection of all of us," he said in an address prepared at the annual Alpha Sigma Nu (honorary Jesuit fraternity) lecture at Creighton University here.

"We in Germany have realized that we cannot exist without closely cooperating with the other free nations of Europe," he continued. "The entire concept of our national life and policy has changed. This is an adjustment we have had to make and I think we have made it successfully. We have come to understand that community power as Secretary Dulles said, the consolidation of our resources is the first fact of life for us."

Strength Apparent

Even though the European Defense Community plan was rejected, he said it was then that the "real strength of the movement toward consolidation became apparent," and the present set of Paris treaties was shaped.

The ambassador devoted most of his address to these treaties.

Of the treaty concerned with termination of the occupation regime in the federal Republic of Germany, he said sovereignty is "an inherent attribute of any nation. . . . The treaty is that there can be no partnership except among equals and that only a free member of the community is able to give his best for the common effort."

With reference to North Atlantic treaty Organization membership, he commented that although "rearmament, as such is highly unpopular in Germany," the Germans are ready to accept the "obligations that go with this new partnership." But they do it in a sober mood because bearing arms is not an occasion for jubilation among the German people.

Serves Collaboration

He termed the Western European Union treaty one designed to "serve not only the interests of collective self defense, but collaboration in economic, social and cultural matters as well."

"I need only mention the importance of raising by common effort out standard of living in Europe; for a high standard of living is a most effective safeguard against Communist infiltration and subversion."

Citing the adjustments the German people have had to make to "the realities of the present day situation," he commented: "That we can make these adjustments of our own free will, I think, an indication of foresight and strength of character."

He termed the treaties "good and practical instruments" to "serve the purpose of preserving 'our common western heritage.'"

Water Tower Gives Way To Diesel Age

Lincoln Star Special

SCRIBNER, Neb. — Another Scribner landmark has given way to modern transportation.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad water tower has been torn down. And workmen are now razing the pumping station and water treating plant.

Scribner first became a water station for trains in 1874. The wooden tanks first used for water storage had to be replaced about every 30 years.

The tanks, which were just torn down, were about 30 years old. It has been two years since it was used for oil-burning diesels have replaced the steam engines.

The treating plant now being dismantled was constructed when it was found that Scribner water was too "hard" and required chemical treatment.

The first of the railroad facilities to disappear was a coal shed which was torn down about 28 years ago. The round house which housed equipment used on the daily Scribner-Oakdale run was razed about 15 years ago.

Air Force Independent Recruiting Program Hailed For Effectiveness

By VERN HAUGLAND

OMAHA — The Air Force's new independent recruiting program has been hailed as much more effective than the recently discarded system of recruiting jointly with the Army — and only about half as expensive.

The Air Force Assn. (AFA) says the program indicates that voluntary enlistments can become a "far more important factor in solving the military manpower problem than has heretofore been realized."

And the backbone of this new look in recruiting, says AFA, is a "family approach" — visits by Air Force recruiters at the homes of prospective enlistees.

The AFA, composed of Air Force veterans and other citizens interested in air power development, made public at a celebration here of the ninth anniversary of the strategic Air Command recruiting summary sent to the House Armed Services Subcommittee.

James H. Straubel, AFA executive director, told Rep. Brooks (D-La.), subcommittee chairman, that:

1. Joint Army-Air Force recruiting with the Army as the executive agency, was able to achieve only 83.7 per cent of the Air Force goal during the fiscal year ending last June 30 — 140,605 voluntary enlistments out of a goal of 167,907.

2. In the first eight months of existence, the independent Air Force recruiting system has obtained 130,645 voluntary enlistments, an average of 16,330 a month as against the monthly average of 16,076 needed to reach the current fiscal year's goal of 192,920.

The Air Force actually had to "shut off the intake" in January and February in order to permit a more even flow of recruits through training centers, Straubel said.

A relatively even flow of recruits, achieved for the first time during the past eight months, has resulted in better training, better utilization of manpower, and a saving in money," the AFA official wrote.

"Also, Air Force instructors report that the quality of voluntary enlistees is now higher than it was under the joint recruiting system."

Straubel said defense department and budget bureau figures show that the cost for each voluntary air force recruit under joint recruiting in the last year of that program was $105.13.

In the first six months of separate recruiting the cost was reduced 21 per cent, to $82.65 for each Air Force recruit, he said.

And in the same six months the Army's cost per voluntary recruit was $149, or 34 per cent more than the Air Force average, he said. The cost for the Army under the Selective Service system, during the year ending last June 30, was given at $147.73 for each inductee.

"Thus the Air Force is able to obtain voluntary enlistments at almost half of what it costs to draft men into the Army," Straubel said.

"Savings under the voluntary enlistment program are even greater than these cold statistics indicate."

"The Air Force obtains a voluntary enlistee for at least a four year tour of duty.

"The Army obtains a draftee for only two years duty, and the Army experiences a much lower reenlistment rate."

The AFA report pointed out that the most important Air Force voluntary enlistees are those with prior military service, because they do not have to go through the expensive basic training process.

It said that during the last year of joint recruiting the Air Force obtained only 15,040 prior-service enlistees — 64 per cent of the goal. In the first eight months of the current fiscal year the Air Force has averaged 2,009 such enlistees a

RECREATION PLANS TALKED FOR LAKE

TRENTON, Neb. — The Chamber of Commerce has big plans for Swanson Lake near Trenton.

Ray Smith, chamber president, said the long-range plans for setting up summer recreation facilities at the lake began last week.

The initial project involves construction of a rock boat ramp on the south shore. A group of floating buoys are planned to enclose a wading and swimming area.

"Then we have about 25 picnic tables to put on the south shore," explained Forrest Quick, project chairman. "All the labor for the work is volunteered by men in Trenton and Stratton who are anxious to begin a regular recreation season at the lake."

The building of shelterhouses is included in the plans for the next few years. Permanent construction, however, depends on the future water level of the lake.

"There is a lot of work we would like to do," Quick said, "but we will have to do it as we get permission from the government and based on the money we can accumulate."

"A great deal of interest has been shown by boating, swimming and water skiing enthusiasts," he went on. "We hope to have boat racing, probably about July 4, but final arrangements with a racing association have not been completed."

The lake was formed by Trenton Dam.

Leaving For England

A week from today, April 4, Mrs. Robert Bagby will be plane-ing off to Boston where she will be the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. R. H. Clothier, until April 8, when she boards the SS Parthia for England.

We're guessing that A/C Bagby will be at the docks in Liverpool on April 16 to meet his wife and to escort her to Burtonwood AFB, where he has been stationed for the past 10 months.

Right at the moment Mrs. Bagby, the former Kitty Clothier, Gamma Phi Beta at Nebraska, is in the midst of packing at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Clothier.

—these gray days in Nebraska make one long for more sunny climes and the opportunity to do a little traveling. Which brings to mind the famous girl reporter of the late 1800's who went around the world in record time. The most amazing of Nellie Bly's feats, however, was that she travelled in only ONE outfit and with ONE "satchel." Nell wore a two-piece travelling dress, a plaid coat, a double-peaked ghillie cap, and gloves. Around her neck was fastened a chamois skin bag that contained money, papers, and other valuables. In her pocket was a twenty-four hour watch set to New York time.

—in her lone "satchel" she had crammed two ghillie caps, three veils, a pair of slippers, a complete outfit of toilet articles, and inkstand, pen, pencils, copy paper, pins, needles, thread, dressing and nightgown, tennis blazer, several changes of flannel underwear, handkerchiefs, fresh ruchings, and a jar of cold cream. Over her arm she carried a silk waterproof coat.

—hers would be quite a feat even in these days of air travel and lightweight clothing!

—and did you know that luggage will go through many trips and come out looking like new if you protect the surface with a coat of wax before it is used? Brass fittings such as locks and fasteners will be kept free from rust if they are coated, too.

—in the hard-for-me-to-believe category is the fact that, in the field of specialty books, the leader in the last few years has been the cookbook. In the postwar years the number of cookbook titles per year increased slowly to over twenty in 1950, then jumped to thirty-six in 1951 and forty-six in 1953. Figures for 1954 and 55 are not yet complete, but it looks as if it was the year of the cookbook, with new volumes on infra-red cookery, casserole barbecue, chafing-dish, and electric-blender cookery, hors d'oeuvre, chicken and mushroom cookery, as well as the national cuisines of all peoples of the world.

Lincoln ABWA Friendship Tea Held Sunday

The members of the Lincoln Chapter of the American Business Women's Association were tea hostesses Sunday afternoon at Hotel Cornhusker when they climaxed their spring membership drive with a "National Hand of Friendship" tea.

The friendship tea, according to word received from the national headquarters of the organization, was held on the same date by all chapters of ABWA throughout the country. There are more than 100 chapters with 5,500 members in 40 states.

The Lincoln chapter, as will other chapters of ABWA, soon will be selecting its outstanding business woman who will be a candidate for the national title of "American Business Woman of the Year."

The candidate chosen for this honor will be awarded a plaque at the association's annual national convention to be held in St. Louis the latter part of October.

Craft Center Open House

The YWCA Craft Center has planned an open house between the hours of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and 8:30 o'clock in the evening, at the YWCA on Thursday, March 31.

The public is invited to attend the open house and will be given an opportunity to see the articles made in the various classes. The display will include textile painting, oil and water color, enameling on copper, basketry, tool craft and ceramics.

Serving as hostesses for the affair will be the following members of the YWCA Craft committee: Miss Mary McGahey, Miss Freda Schmale, Mrs. Paul Royal, Mrs. O. A. Reinhard, Mrs. Leonard A. Flansburg, Mrs. Robert Molzer, and the co-chairmen, Mrs. S. J. Fieselman and Mrs. Chauncey W. Smith.

AROUND TOWN

JUST heard that Hillcrest is all dressed up in a new bib and tucker this season—new manager, new decoration here and there, new this and new that—And it's nice that one of the early spring features, to be held at Hillcrest, is a performance on Saturday afternoon, April 2, by the Shattuck Military Academy's Crack Drill Squad.

On the squad is its captain, Woodward Burgert of Highland Park, Ill., who, in case you didn't know, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Burgert. Also on the squad is Robert Hinrichs, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Hinrichs of Lincoln.

Following the performance there will be a reception and dance, honoring the members of the squad, and for which invitations have been issued.

The Drill team will be accompanied to Lincoln by Col. W. H. Gilmore and the Rev. Joseph McKee, both from Shattuck, and the group will return to the academy on Sunday, April 3.

SATURDAY, April 2, seems to be a most popular day—Understand that the members of the Terpsichorean Dancing Club have plans for a dinner dance that evening in the Terrace Room at Hotel Lincoln.

Arranging for the party, which is to be the club's annual cotton and sportswear dance, is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Achord, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Heiliger, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Jones Jr., and Mr.

and Mrs. Michael Edwards.

During the evening new officers will be elected.

HAD a brief visit with Mrs. E. T. Hobbs during the week-end, and she told us that she and Dr. Hobbs were leaving on Sunday (yesterday) for Los Angeles, where Dr. Hobbs will attend the national convention of General Practitioners. Following the convention Dr. and Mrs. Hobbs will board plane for Hawaii where they will spend several days. They plan to return to the Mainland by boat, and will dock on April 18 in San Francisco, where they will enplane for Lincoln.

ALSO heard that Mrs. Burnham Yates is in Florida where she joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walsh of Chicago, for a late winter holiday in Florida. Mrs. Yates is expected to return home next week.

LOOKED over the week's calendar and found a party next Thursday evening for Miss Karen Benson, whose marriage to Kenneth Moore will be solemnized on Sunday, April 3. The host and hostess will be Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Davis who will entertain at dinner at the University Club.

AND complimenting their daughter and Mr. Moore on Saturday will be Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Benson who will preside at dinner at Hotel Cornhusker. The guest list will include the members of the bridal party, and the immediate families.

Arriving on Friday to attend the pre-nuptial dinner and the wedding will be the bride-elect's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Benson of Hays, Kan. And also coming for the dinner and the wedding and arriving on Friday will be Miss Benson's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Conyers of Ft. Morgan, Colo.

SINCE we seem on the topic of brides and courtesies, we think a few wedding dates might not come amiss—And this morning Miss Mary Lou Webb of Maywood, Ill., Pi Beta Phi at Nebraska, is announcing the members of the bridal party for her marriage to Kenneth Kunes on April 16.

Mrs. Herbert Greenwald of Oak Park, Ill., will be the matron of honor, and the trio of bridesmaids will include Miss Marilyn Bourck, Plattsmouth; Miss Sabra Jo Smith, Gothenburg, and Miss Carol Duey of Falls City.

Don Hewitt of Des Moines will serve Mr. Kunes as best man, and the ushers will be Roger Goede, Lincoln, and Robert Webb of Maywood, brother of the bride.

Plans For A Wedding

There's a month by the name of June that will be arriving one of these days, and it is noted for a number of things—commencement ceremonies—and weddings, to name a couple—

In the above Tea-for-Two picture we have two June graduates who also may have another June milestone, although the date has not as yet been named.

But this morning Mr. and Mrs. Burdett L. Fitch of Alliance are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Theola, to Richard W. Faes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse G. Faes of Lincoln.

Miss Fitch will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority, and Delta Phi Delta, art honorary. Mr. Faes also will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration, and is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, and of Alpha Kappa Psi, business professional fraternity. The wedding will take place in Lincoln.

(seated at right), the members of Kappa chapter of Beta Sigma Phi were tea hostesses between the hours of 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon at the home of their chapter director, Mrs. Herbert M. # Recent History At Prison Includes Slaying Of Guard, Riots, Escapes

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

The recent history of the Nebraska Penitentiary has been one of violence, including the death of a guard who was bludgeoned to death and several riots and escape attempts.

Outside the several escapes that have occurred by trustees, there have been several attempts, some violent, including that of the famed Kenneth Kitts.

Kitts' attempt to escape from the Penitentiary occurred in July, 1951, when he tried tunneling through the blocks in the east wing of the prison. Prior to that by three months, three inmates, including Roland Dean Sundahl, later executed for the slaying of a Silver Creek carhop, cut their wrists in the prison segregation unit.

Other attempts and rioting included:

January, 1952 — A dinner time riot in the mess hall was quelled without injury after 14 inmates on the first shift started throwing plates and utensils.

March, 1952 — Two inmates were caught trying to escape by sawing through the bars and sealing the saw cuts with soap.

June, 1952 — Guard Sim Ballard suffered a slashed throat in the escape attempt of three inmates, including Joseph DeYonghe. None of the inmates, who were armed with knives, got beyond the inner cell block.

Sept., 1952 — Inmate David Edward Greenfield, 21, who was later captured, escaped in a flower planting box being delivered to a store in Lincoln.

Jan., 1953 — Inmates in segregation completely wrecked the plumbing by ripping it from the walls. Damage was heavy but no injuries occurred and the uprising was quelled quickly.

Jan., 1954 — Close to 300 inmates were involved, although there was a reported hard core of ringleaders, in a mass riot resulting in $5,000 damage to the prison laundry. Five guards were taken hostage, three of them in the east cell block, two in the laundry, by the rioting prisoners who set fire to machines in the laundry room.

April, 1954 — Guard John Clausen, eating his lunch alone in the prison print shop, was brutally clubbed and his throat slashed. One inmate was brought to trial, Charles Edward McClelland, 24, but was found innocent by a jury in District Court.

Oct. 20, 1954 — An inmate considered an important witness in the death of Guard John Clausen slashed his own throat. The prisoner was Harvey Durbin, 31, of Omaha.

Jan. 20, 1955 — Four inmates locked three guards in a vegetable cooler and made good their escape outside the prison walls but were stopped by the firing of a riot gun from a guard on the outside. The inmates had climbed a fence after sawing through a window in the officers' mess hall.

Former State Minister's Phaeton Taken

A former Central City minister, seeking the recovery of his rare and valuable auto—a dark green Chevrolet phaeton—has posted a $500 reward.

The car, owned by the Rev. E. Earle Eaton of Havre de Grace, Md., has been missing from a public parking lot in Aberdeen, Md., for several weeks now. The Rev. Mr. Eaton is pastor of Webster Congregational Church.

The car, reportedly a familiar sight on Maryland highways, was purchased new by the Rev. Mr. Eaton 20 years ago and has been operated a total of 315,000 miles.

The car is reported to be the only unit of its model ever produced. It had led a number of parades including one for the late Franklin D. Roosevelt at Rochester, N.Y.

The Rev. Mr. Eaton, formerly a professor at Nebraska Central College, believes the car may have been taken westward. Its appraised value as a collector's item has been upwards of $4,000.

SHE SAW HUSBAND DIE—

Woman A Heroine In Fatal Sea Crash

SEATTLE, — High heroism in the crash of a Honolulu-bound Pan-American Stratocruiser off the Oregon coast emerged Sunday as a rescue ship, the Navy transport Bayfield, pushed toward Seattle carrying 4 dead and 19 lucky survivors.

Herman Joslin, the plane's captain, praised all hands — a "perfect crew," two of whom perished when the plane crash-landed in the sea and burned, and passengers who calmly jumped into the cold water.

One person with a broken leg, and others suffering from bruises and minor shock were being cared for in the ship's sick bay.

Real Heroine

Mrs. David Darrow of Auburn, Wash., was acclaimed as a heroine worthy of a Spartan legend.

She helped evacuate passengers from the sinking plane, comforting them calmly, although minutes before she had seen her husband swept helplessly beyond reach of a life raft.

Swirled away with Darrow were the plane's copilot, A. G. Hendrick of Seattle, and its engineer, Don Fowler of Los Altos, Calif. All three were dead when pulled from the sea.

50-Years-Old

The fourth victim was 50-year-old John E. Peterson of Seattle who died soon after being hauled aboard the Bayfield from a life raft with fellow survivors.

Two Honolulu school girls, who admitted it was "hard not to be afraid," sang school songs as they drifted aboard a life raft for an hour. One survivor said they "pepped us all up."

One of the girls, Gail Dillingham, described what happened after the plane dropped one engine and landed on the waves. In the air before that there was "a flash and a bang and flames."

Nervous Giggle

Mary Harrison of Honolulu said with a nervous giggle:

"The only thing that irritated me most at the moment was that the gasoline got into my chewing gum."

Official accounts said there was "an intense 30-second vibration" before the engine dropped. Ditching orders were given immediately. The Stratocruiser was 45 minutes out of Portland.

"There was no panic," said Joslin. "I had a perfect crew which did everything that could be expected."

The plane's tail snapped off just behind the seat of James Peppin, the steward, at the rear. It remained afloat for some time.

NU Student Spending 'Below Average'—Dean

University of Nebraska students probably spend considerably less money than the average student in American colleges, Associate Dean of Men Frank Hallgren said.

He referred to a survey conducted by Time, Inc., which shows the average student spends $3,644 a year for board and room, tuition, entertainment, clothing and all other expenses.

Hallgren said he believes University of Nebraska students spend an average of $2,200 yearly, although "there probably are greater extremes in the amount students spend at the university than at other Nebraska schools."

No statements have been compiled on the average expenditures of University of Nebraska students.

Thomas Gillaspie Dies At His Home

Thomas Arthur Gillaspie, 69, 4707 Meridith, died Sunday at his home.

He was an active sportsman and had been an umpire and a manager of city league baseball teams.

Facts From '54

Our 50th anniversary year of 1954 was one of progress and accomplishment. Here are some highlights taken from the company's annual report to stockholders.

A Home Town Business

LT&T is a home town business run by home town people. Employees' wages last year were nearly $5 million. Most of this was spent locally.

New Equipment

Growing with the communities we serve, we invested $3 million gross in 1954 for new equipment and plant facilities for more and better telephone service. In ten years the average investment per telephone has gone up from $186 to $262.

More Telephones

More people can call you. You can call more people. During 1954 we gained 4,289 telephones, as many as in Seward, Wahoo and Geneva, combined.

73% of LT&T telephones are dial.

A Nebraska Company

A Nebraska company serving Nebraska people, LT&T is owned by 4,300 shareholders, people of all walks of life, most of whom live in Nebraska.

Back of Your Service

It takes more people to run the business as we continue to grow. Last year your friends and neighbors at the telephone company increased to 1,496. Ten years ago there were 1,167.

Long Distance Faster

Long distance calls last year averaged 11,475 daily, 46% more than during World War II. And service is faster and better than ever. Operators now dial about 40% of your long distance calls straight thru to distant telephones.

Taxes

Taxes take a big bite out of money you pay for telephone service. Including federal excise you pay directly, taxes on your telephone service last year came to $22.69 for every LT&T telephone in use.

Building For The Future

This year we propose a construction budget of $3 1/2 million, $400,000 more than last year, to extend and improve—even more—the service of LT&T to south-east Nebraska.

Billy Graham 'A Panther, Stalking Sin,' In Scotland

GLASGOW, Scotland (U)—Glasgow, like every great city which hears Billy Graham for the first time, wonders how he does it.

Scottish churches have been moving along in their traditional grooves fairly successfully, but encountering a great mass of indifference to religion.

Then along came the handsome American evangelist with the wavy hair, the sparkling tailored suit, the polished manner, and a mysterious miracle overwhelms the big town.

He attracts sinners and bishops. Grubby characters come up from the docks of the Clyde. Grandfathers leave the chimney corner and women flock in thousands to Kelvin Hall to hear him say with powerful effect that God loves them all.

100,000 Hear Him

More than 100,000 have heard him in the first week of the All-Scotland Revival Crusade.

The whole city calls him Billy. The traffic cops salute him as if he was the mayor. He radiates friendliness. The nearest he has come to being angry in Scotland was when he heard yesterday that stewards had excluded six youths from Kelvin Hall because they seemed to be too ragged for church.

He wants them all, the unkempt and the clean.

Churchmen have been amazed at the response to his appeal. Some are revising their own approaches to their ministries.

Graham sticks to the Bible, and what he says in 40 minutes doesn't seem a sermon at all.

'Frustrated?'

"Are you frustrated, bewildered, dejected, breaking under the strains of life?" he asks. "Then listen for a moment to me—say 'yes' to the Saviour tonight, and in a moment you will know such comfort as you have never known. It comes to you quickly, swiftly as I snap my fingers, just like that, just like that."

He repeats a phrase often, says it in many forms.

Many are fascinated by his smooth platform manner. He is animated, but he doesn't jump about.

"He is as graceful as a panther, stalking sin," remarked a journalist, "and he is very hard to quote in a story. You feel him as much as you hear him."

London Readers Starve For News—No Newspapers

LONDON (U)—Britain went without its national Sunday newspapers Sunday for the first time in nearly 30 years—and the lack of news was the biggest news in this news-starved nation.

The British Broadcasting Corp. opened its newscasts with detailed reports on the strike which has shut down the 10 big national dailies, 11 Sunday papers and London's three evening papers.

In pubs and clubs, bets were laid on the missing installments of Sunday comics. Groups huddled in barroom corners to work out next week's football pools without benefit of the Sunday paper tipsters.

Newsstands reported a record business in weekend magazines. Londoners, the most avid newspaper consumers in the world, even bought out back stocks of kids comics in the desperate hunt for something to read.

Labor and management reported continued deadlock in the walkout of maintenance engineers and electricians which shut down the papers.

NU Expects 5,000 Increase In Number School Children Visitors

Approximately 20,000 school children are expected to visit the University of Nebraska State Museum in Morrill Hall in the next two months, an increase of 5,000 over a year ago, Newell Joyner, naturalist-guide, said.

The students will come from 500 rural schools and 600 elementary, secondary, and college units from Nebraska and 10 nearby states, he said.

Since July, 42,000 persons have visited the Museum. The breakdown is: 3,500 in guided school groups; 4,200 Boy Scouts; 4,000 persons in non-guided groups; and 30,000 individual visitors.

Mr. Joyner said that Museum displays erected at outside shows, such as the State Fair, and Omaha Sports Show, have attracted another 100,000 viewers.

Each year, the Museum attempts to add new educational displays, he explained. At present, the Museum has more kinds of fossil elephants on display than any other museum in the world. "And," Joyner added, "all the fossils come from Nebraska."

The Museum also has more kinds of fossil camels and horses than any Museum in North America. Also of particular interest to the school children, he said, are the Hall of Wildlife and the Mueller Health Galleries.

Four Weeks Give Smith Answer

Phillies Lack Bat Power Of Contender

By JOE REICHLER

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Four weeks of hard work has proved to Mayo Smith what he suspected when he first took over the reins of the Philadelphia Phillies last winter . . . the team simply doesn't have enough hitting to become an important factor in the National League pennant race.

The freshman Philly manager, far from being a defeatist, is hoping for the best but he knows he has trouble spots at first base, second base and in right field. And their power hitter to take the lead off Del Ennis, the only real long ball hitter on the club, is a must if the Phils are to improve on their fourth place finish of a year ago. As of now, Smith is still looking for that kind of hitter.

Added Woes

Adding to his woes, Curt Simmons still hasn't pitched an inning because of a sore left shoulder although the ace southpaw's arm is beginning to show signs of coming around. The 25-year-old Simmons, who hadn't thrown a ball since the first week of spring training, threw to the batters for 20 minutes last Friday and announced that the arm felt better. "It was the first time I was able to throw without feeling any pain," he said happily. "The shoulder is still tight and the arm is still weak but that's because I haven't thrown for three weeks. I don't mind telling you I was plenty worried. I am not out of the woods yet but I feel lots better."

If Simmons shakes off his arm soreness, as Smith is confident he will, the Phillies probably will boast the best pitching staff in the league. Simmons ranked third in effectiveness last year with a 2.81 ERA, despite a 15-14 record. Robin Roberts, who won 23 games to mark his fifth straight 20-plus season, has looked like the best pitcher in the league, which he is. Herm Wehmeier, the No. 3 man, has pitched brilliantly this spring as has the veteran Murry Dickson, who is slated to be a once-a-week starter.

Pitcher-Rich

The pitcher-rich Phillies appear to have come up with a pair of rookie finds in Jim Owens and Jack Meyer. The young right-handers, up from Syracuse, look like two of the best pitching prospects in Florida. Another Syracuse graduate, 31-year-old Lynn Lovenguth, has sparked in relief and figures to join holdovers Bob Miller, Steve Ridzik, Ron Mrozinski and either Bob Greenwood or Thornton Kipper on the second line.

"Our pitching has been superb so far," said Smith. "Of course, this is only spring training but it is a good feeling nevertheless. On the other hand, I'm not too pleased with our hitting, or lack of it. We've done our share of winning but we've had too many one-run decisions to suit me. Eight of our first 13 games were decided by one run. That was our trouble last year."

Smith has just about given up on his experiment with Lou Ortiz, a fine glove man but a .225 hitter from Rochester, at second base. Right now the leading candidate is Bobby Morgan, a much better hitter but an inferior defensive player. The veteran Earl Torgeson (271) and rookie Marv Blaylock (303 at Syracuse) probably will divide the first base chores with Jim Westlake, the San Francisco rookie. Willie Jones (271) remains at shortstop, his first love, is the bright spot of the infield. The 27-year-old veteran was not too happy with his switch to second base the past couple of seasons.

Right Big Worry

"We're not too badly off at first and I think Morgan can do the job at second base," Smith said. "Our biggest worry is right field. There but one either can hit but can't field while the other can field but can't hit. I just don't know who will open the season there."

The best guess is that Ennis, who hammered 25 home runs and drove in 119 runs despite a .261 batting average, will be switched from left to right. Peanuts Lowrey, the former Cardinal pinch hitter de luxe picked up as a free agent, probably will open the season in left. Richie Ashburn, the Phils' Iron Man, is the center fielder.

Lopata Enjoying Spring

The ever-improving Stan Lopata, who is enjoying a fine spring, will do most of the catching. Smokey Burgess, despite a .368 batting average in 106 games last year, will be behind the plate only when Lopata needs a rest. Smith believes his No. 1 catcher should work in as many games as he can.

Rhodes Leads Tribe Defeat

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Dusty Rhodes drove in five runs with four hits today as New York defeated Cleveland 13-8 in a game between the "B" teams from the Giants and Indians.

The pinch batter, batting today in the cleanup spot, hit singles in the first and fourth innings, a triple in the sixth and a double in the seventh.

Doby Smashes Three Homers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Larry Doby hit three home runs and drove in seven scores Sunday as the Cleveland Indians beat the San Francisco Seals 14-0 in an exhibition.

Pitchers Bob Lemon and Art Houtteman gave up five hits while shutting out the Pacific Coast League team.

Doby's first homer, coming with the bases full, broke a scoreless tie in the fifth inning. His other two came in the ninth inning when the Tribe got eight runs. Previously this spring he had hit only one home run.

Memorial Services Held For Rockne

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Hunk Anderson eulogized the late Knute Rockne at the 24th annual Memorial Service for Notre Dame's great football coach.

Anderson played under Rockne, later served as his assistant and then succeeded him as head football coach.

Terry Brennan, present Notre Dame coach, also spoke at the services held each year on the Sunday closest to the date of Rockne's fatal plane crash on March 31, 1931.

Mrs. Bonnie Rockne, widow of Rockne, and her daughter, Jan, attended the memorial mass preceding the breakfast. Rockne's three sons, Billy, Knute Jr., and Jack, took part in a wreath-laying ceremony after the breakfast.

Saxton Slight Favorite In Bout With DeMarco

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Johnny Saxton puts his welterweight championship on the line for the first time since he won the crown from Kid Gavilan five months ago when he faces local idol Tony DeMarco in Boston Friday night in the top bout of the week.

Nationals Tip Celtics In Playoff

BOSTON (AP)—The Syracuse Nationals won the Eastern Division final playoff of the National Basketball Assn. Sunday by eliminating the Boston Celtics 110-94 at Boston Arena in their best of five series.

The victory gave Syracuse the series three games to one.

The Celtics were in the ball game only during the first period which ended 18-all. After that, superb ball handling, rebounding and shooting pushed the Nats into the lead which they never relinquished.

Dolph Schayes was top man for Syracuse with 28 points, including 14 of 14 from the foul line, but it was the fine rebounding and shooting of Earl Lloyd and Red Rocha that gave the Nats their big edge.

Lloyd, who missed a last second shot in Saturday's playoff game that would have given Syracuse three straight wins, poured 22 points through the hoop Sunday. Rocha had 15 and held Easy Ed Macaulay to a pair of baskets.

Pistons Grab West Playoff

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Fort Wayne Pistons eliminated the Minneapolis Lakers from the semifinals of the National Basketball Assn. playoffs here Sunday night, scoring a 105-96 triumph before 6,871 fans.

Mel Hutchins with 17 points in the last half carried the Pistons to their 3-1 edge in the Western Division championship series. Fort Wayne thus qualified for the World Series of professional basketball against Syracuse, which closed out the Eastern half of the semifinals against Boston earlier in the day.

Clyde Lovellette, who tallied 25 points, was high scorer for the game and the Lakers dominated much of the first half. At one point they led by 12 points, 43-31. Andy Phillip and Larry Foust sparked a Fort Wayne drive that brought the Pistons within one point at the half, 46-45.

Hutchins shot Fort Wayne into a 47-46 lead to start the third period and after a 2-minute exchange rookie Dick Rosenthal put the Pistons ahead 52-50 and they were never again headed.

Chiefs Acquire Righthander

The Lincoln Chiefs Sunday acquired Gus Hartsoe, 21-year-old right-handed pitcher, from Denver. Business Manager Dick Wagner said Hartsoe would report to the Huntsville, Tex., training camp immediately.

Hartsoe, a King's Mountain, N. C., native, was discharged from the Army last week and the Chiefs purchased his contract from Denver. He has applied for reinstatement.

The 5 foot 11, 170-pound pitcher last played in 1952. He had a 2-4 record with Oshkosh of the Class D Wisconsin State League, and was 5-1 the same year during a stint at Lincoln in the Class D North Carolina State League. He was in the Army in 1953 and 1954.

Sunday Wagner reported ticket sales were in the vicinity of 30,000, and were expected to climb higher as a result of mail orders.

"We are receiving good response to our mail order drive, and that will help us a great deal," he said.

Mail orders will be taken until midnight Monday.

Marciano Breaks Pre-Training Camp

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP)—Rocky Marciano, world's heavyweight boxing champion, concluded his preliminary training Sunday for his May 16 title-defense bout with Don Cockell of London at San Francisco.

Rocky will break camp here today and head for his new training quarters at Calistoga, Calif., 73 miles from San Francisco. The heavyweight king's contract requires him to train near San Francisco for at least six weeks before the bout.

When Rocky started his light training at Grossinger's January 11, he weighed 205. Today, after winding up his activities here with seven miles of roadwork and three rounds of sparring with Keene Simmons of Bayonne, N.J., Rocky scaled 191, four pounds over his best fighting weight. Since February 12, when he started ring workouts, Rocky has boxed a total of 87 rounds.

En route to California, Rocky will make appearances at Scranton and Carbondale, Pa., and Chicago.

Saxton won the 147-pound title in Philadelphia and a controversial one it was. It was so close it could have gone either way.

The odds around Boston are 6-5 and pick 'em, but most New York oddsmakers have installed Saxton a 3-2 choice. Saxton isn't a pleasing fighter, relying mainly on a combination of clutching and infighting. But it has proved successful for him as witness his record of 45-3-2.

Drew With Carter

DeMarco shows an impressive 40-4-1 mark, but it has been made almost wholly in Boston. His best effort to date was a 10-round draw with lightweight king Jimmy Carter last month. The last time DeMarco fought outside Boston more than two years ago, he dropped successive decisions to Brian Kelly and Gene Poirer, both in Montreal.

The last title fight in the Hub resulted in a real horror show. It was the one in which Carter dropped Tommy Collins 10 times in four rounds. This was two years ago. There will be no television or radio for this bout.

With the circus taking over Madison Square Garden until the middle of May, the television (NBC) fight Friday will come from Syracuse where Chico Vejar, the Stamford, Conn., collegian plays a return engagement with Billy Graham of New York.

Chico Favored

The last time these welters met a month ago in New York, Vejar, who studies dramatics at New York University, whipped Graham. Chico is an 11-5 favorite.

Paddy DeMarco, making his first start in this country since losing his lightweight title to Carter, rates a 3-1 choice to waltz past Libby Manzo, a good local boxer, at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

After being licked by Carter, Paddy headed for foreign shores and was flattened promptly by Seraphin Ferrer in Paris. Now he's back and hopes to get a fresh start. The bout will be televised over DuMont.

At Eastern Parkway, tonight's pairing will be Jimmy Martinez of Phoenix, Ariz., against Danny Giovannelli of New York. Martinez isan 11-5 favorite over a fighter who hasn't been in the ring since last September. Giovannelli has had managerial troubles and at the moment is his own pilot. The welterweight scrap will be televised over ABC.

Willie Pep, the ex-featherweight champion, meets Gilbert Cadilli, a former GI from Los Angeles, in the Wednesday television bout over CBS. This will be beamed from Parks Air Force Base in California. Cadilli is a good boxer, but he can't punch, so Pep is the favorite.

Sugar Ray Robinson, who has a 1-1 record since starting his comeback, takes on Joe Lombardo in Cincinnati Tuesday.

Monti Scores 68 To Win In Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Fighting blusterly March winds and a half-dozen other professional golf stars who were hot on his heels, Eric Monti fired a cool last-round 68 Sunday to win the $12,500 Miami Beach Open golf tournament.

Scoring the biggest victory of his career, the 36-year-old Los Angeles pro posted a 72-hole score of 270 to finish 18 strokes under par for the Bayshore Golf Course and two strokes in front of Bob Rosburg, the promising young campaigner from San Francisco.

Monti, who quit the golf trail in 1950 after he was seriously injured in an automobile accident, made a six-week leave from the Hillcrest Golf Club in Los Angeles pay off as he captured a $2,200 first prize.

The slender, bespectacled pro, who spends most of his time teaching the game to the movie stars, plays in only a few tournaments. He is due back at Hillcrest in April.

"I played pretty well," Monti said as he came in after beating off strong challenges by such players as Rosburg, Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and Shelley Mayfield, the outstanding young golfer from Westbury, L.I.

Starting the last 18 hole round one stroke up on Rosburg and Mayfield, the steady Californian turned into the last nine still clinging to a one-stroke margin.

Cerv Grand-Slam Homer Gives Yankees 7-5 Win

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—Bob Cerv hit a grand-slam homer to earn the New York Yankees a 7-5 victory in the first game of a chilly doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals here Sunday.

The teams battled to a scoreless tie in the nightcap, limited to seven innings by mutual agreement. Southpaw Harvey Haddix and righthander Bob Grim waged a brilliant pitchers' battle in the second game. St. Louis making only two hits and New York three.

Whitey Ford, star southpaw, went eight innings in the opener, for the longest stint by a Yankee staffer this spring. Ford was the winning pitcher on the strength of Cerv's 415-foot crash over the temporary bleachers in left center. Gordon Jones, third St. Louis pitcher, was the victim of the blow.

A walk to Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra's fourth hit, a double, and an intentional pass to Joe Collins set the stage for Cerv's circuit. Ford yielded nine hits, including Stan Musial's first homer of the spring.

Chisox Defeat Brooks, 4-3

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Trailing 3-1 with two out in the ninth, the Chicago White Sox tied the score on Jim Rivera's homer and then edged the Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3 when Rivera doubled home the winning run in the 11th. It was Brooklyn's fifth extra inning game of the spring.

Joe Black retired the first two batters in the ninth, but Minnie Minoso singled. Rivera then drove over the left field wall. Minoso also started the winning rally with a double to left in the 11th Rivera doubled him home for the clincher.

Until the ninth Jackie Robinson of the Brooks was the star with four singles and a steal of home. Robbie scored two of his team's runs off Jack Harshman, who was relieved by Sandy Consuegra after walking two men in the fifth. Robinson stole home on Consuegra.

Maury Martin was the winning pitcher although he allowed two hits and walked as many Brooklyn batters in the extra innings.

A's Lose 4-1 On Four Hits

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Red Sox sophomore pitchers, Frank Sullivan and Tom Brewer, held the Kansas City Athletics, piloted by their former manager, Lou Boudreau, to four hits as Boston racked up a 4-1 victory before 1,154 top-coated fans Sunday.

Sullivan gave up all the hits in his five innings to hand a 2-1 lead to Brewer who finished, pitching hitless ball.

The Athletics scored their only run in the first inning on a double by Spook Jacobs, an infield hit by Hal Bevan, with the run scoring as Gus Zernial hit into a double play.

Boston's Jimmy Piersall, credited with three RBIs, tied the score in the second inning when Grady Hatton crossed the plate on a bases loaded fielder's choice.

Piersall put the Sox in front in the fourth with a single following a hit by Sammy White and a walk to Norm Zauchin. Piersall scored another run when with the bases jammed in the sixth, he hit into a sacrifice play.

Grady Hatton's infield tap after a single by Billy Goodman and a walk to Billy Klaus finished off the scoring.

Cloyd Boyer, A's loser and Johnny Gray were in trouble consistently as each handed out four walks.

Solons Edge Detroit, 3-2

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Tiny Ernie Oravetz's single to center with one out in the last of the ninth inning scored Maury McDermott from second base to give Washington a 3-2 exhibition game victory over Detroit Sunday.

McDermott opened the bottom of the ninth with a single to right off loser Ray Herbert and then Eddie Yost sacrificed. That set the stage for the 5-4, Oravetz, recently discharged from the Army, to break up the game.

The Senators scored twice in the fourth inning off Bob Miller when Pete Runnels singled, Roy Sievers tripled to right and Bruce Edwards singled.

The Tigers tied the score against Camilo Pascual in the fifth with two out when Jim Delsing walked and Harvey Kuenn, Fred Hatfield and Ferris Fain singled.

There were four homers in the game, Willie Mays hitting one for the Giants and Gene Baker, Ransom Jackson and rookie catcher Jim Fanning connecting for the Cubs.

It was the eighth of the spring for Mays, who has taken a big lead in the Cactus League clout-ing derby.

The Giants were out-hit by the Cubs, 10-7, but made the most of their opportunities. A four-run rally in the fifth inning in which three walks were sandwiched between doubles by Whitey Lockman and Monte Irvin proved the clincher.

Top Per-Game Salary Goes To Silvera

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK — Charley Silvera stood idly by the batting cage at Miller Huggins field in St. Petersburg waiting to take his licks. His gaze wandered off to the side where a guy with a catcher's mitt was warming up a pitcher Charles blinked rapidly.

"Hey, Mantle," he yelled to the guy with the mitt. "Cut it out. Things are tough enough already." A couple of minutes later Silvera still was waiting his turn when a fellow wearing a mask, shin guards, and fiddling with the straps of a chest protector sidled up to him, as if preparing to relieve the catcher in the cage. Silvera glanced at him casually, then glared.

"Come on now, Mickey," he said seriously, "enough is enough."

Those trivial incidents disclose the uncertainty that has been gnawing on Silvera's confidence since he joined the New York Yankees late in 1948 as understudy to the already-established Yogi Berra.

It isn't that Charley isn't a first-class catcher and a pretty fair hitter. In fact, on some other club he might be the No. 1 receiver catching 130 or 140 games a season, as he is a tireless workhorse.

But on the Yankees he's just second best, and being second to the indelible Berra is like waiting for an acorn to grow into a stalwart oak as far as opportunity for advancement is concerned.

To add to Charley's apprehension, Casey Stengel has been mentioning everyone but a fellow named Silvera when discussing the backstops who might be backstopping Yogi this year.

Casey talks of Elston Howard,

the rookie who doubles as an outfielder, and Lou Berberet, who played five games with the Yankees in 1954 and the rest of the time was hitting .317 for Birmingham.

But Silvera is mentioned as an afterthought. Charley is in the "Oh yes, and Silvera" category, but that might be a compliment, as Stengel knows what Silvera can do, and he wouldn't be keeping him on year after year if he wasn't satisfied.

He's a stocky, intelligent, affable fellow, is the man who walks in Berra's shadow. He's the nervous type, a guy who wants to keep moving all the time, and his rather passive role in the Yankee setup probably gives him a sense of frustration at times.

But he has financial solace that should go far to ease the pain of idleness. Aside from stars who might have been injured, probably no other player in recent years has been paid more for less game activity.

And he has received five full cuts in World Series melons, in addition to his cut in last year's second-place loot.

We don't know what his salary is, but imagine it is representative of the average major league salary. But he has played in only 176 games in his six full seasons with the club, an average of a little better than 29 games a season.

Last year he was at bat only 37 times, being used mostly as a pinch hitter. Yogi played 151 games. And although Charley has been eligible for the five World Series in which he got a full share, he actually took part in only one, playing in one game in 1949.

Battle-Hardened Clyde McCullough Shoots For Job As Number One Backstop For Cubs

PHOENIX, Ariz., (INS) — Battle-hardened Clyde McCullough, 37-year-old Chicago Cub catcher who carries on a veritable talkathon when he is behind the plate, declared himself Sunday as the man who plans to handle the Bruin's number one catching berth.

The fiery receiver flipped off his mask, wiped his forehead and declared: "I'm going to catch 100 games this season. So I guess that makes me the Number One boy."

A veteran of 13 National League campaigns — nine with the Cubs — McCullough is one of six players now in the Cub's training camp fighting for the catching post.

Arm In Shape
Mac whipped a strike down to second base to show that his arm was in good shape. Squatting underneath the broiling Arizona sun, he said:

"I had a sore arm last season. In fact I only got to play in 31 games. I had a real good rest over the winter and I took real good care of my arm."

The Tennessee-born catcher did not take much stock in the fact that there are three rookies battling for the regular catching assignment, including Harry Chiti, a highly publicized player just out of service.

"I've looked over this entire catching crop pretty good and I don't see anybody who is going to keep me from reaching the 100-game mark this year," McCullough continued.

Hair Grayer
"My hair is getting grayer and there isn't as much of it as there used to be, but ol' Mac will be behind that plate this year."

When asked about his hitting, McCullough explained that he is changing his batting grip this year. He said:

"Remember Ernie Lombardi? Well, he changed his style when he was getting along. Now I have adopted Ernie's interlocking grip."

Chiti, a cub farmhand who spent the past two years in the Army, was expected to be McCullough's chief rival.

Bill Fanning and Elwin Tappe are back from another try this year while Joe Hannah, up from Los Angeles club, is also hoping to land a catching assignment.

There is a sixth catcher in the Bruin camp. He is Walker Cooper, who makes a habit of turning up on National League rosters.

Now 40, Cooper is in his first full season with the Cubs. Only

Brooklyn has not had the distinction of signing Cooper.

He listened thoughtfully to McCullough's lengthy sermon on his chances, and then stepped from behind the batting cage and remarked:

"If Mac at 37 is going to catch 100 games, I guess I can take care of the other 54. Any questions?"

Embattled Casey Is Given Ovation At Lang Field Pre-Game Ceremonies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (INS) — A crowd of 3,000 fans gave New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel a standing ovation Sunday when the lantern-jawed baseball veteran, who is charged with cursing and kicking a news photographer, was honored along with the team at pre-game ceremonies in St. Petersburg.

The ceremonies took place before the first game of a twin bill with the St. Louis Cardinals and commemorated the 30th year the Yankees have trained at the Florida west coast city.

Stengel, who guided the Yankees to five straight world's championships, was accused Saturday by a photographer for a local newspaper of kicking him and swearing at him. He will appear before a magistrate on Wednesday and has posted a $50 appearance bond.

The 64-year-old manager, who usually emits torrents of words on any given subject, was quoted by a team spokesman Sunday as saying, "I don't have any further comment (on the incident) and I won't have any."

Al Lang, the man generally credited with bringing major league clubs to Florida for spring training, referred to the incident in his speech honoring the clubs as "that unpleasantness of Saturday."

Lang, for whom the St. Petersburg ball park is named, said: "Now, more than ever, we want to honor the Yankees including (General Manager) George Weiss, (Co-owner) Del Webb and Casey Stengel."

At the mention of Stengel's name, the crowd rose and cheered but Stengel did not take any separate bows.

Stengel told newsmen Saturday, "I see no reason for all this uproar" when asked about the alleged assault.

Redbird Manager Eddie Stanky and team General Manager Richard Meyer accepted the honors for the St. Louis team at Sunday's ceremonies.

Candy Consumption Dip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans ate only 16.3 pounds of candy per person last year as compared with 17.1 pounds in 1953. The Commerce Department said the drop in candy consumption could be traced directly to a 60 per cent increase in the price of cocoa beans due to a crop shortage.

Salesman Held In Connection With Stabbing

Police smashed open a bolted hotel room door to arrest a 24-year-old Hamilton, O., magazine salesman early Sunday morning in connection with the stabbing of his boss.

The victim of the knife assault was Kenneth Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., who suffered a deep four-inch knife cut on the left side of his back, a two-inch cut below his left arm pit, a one-inch cut in the center of his back and a one-inch cut on his left elbow.

He was reported in satisfactory condition at St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Upon entering the hotel room, police discovered blood on the salesman's trousers which were hanging over a chair. The man denied knifing Taylor.

When first questioned by police, Taylor said an unknown assailant knifed him near the entrance of Bennett's Cafe at 7th and P. Police, investigating the man's business associates, became suspicious of the salesman when he transferred hotels in the middle of the night.

Taylor later admitted to police that the arrested man knifed him when Taylor reprimanded him for sale practices.

Taylor told police he was a former Chicago boxer and was afraid of hitting the attacker because the man had a steel plate in his head as a result of the Korean war.

The arrested man told police he changed hotels because the man in charge fired him. He was jailed on an open charge and held overnight.

The Scottish Rite Educational Welfare Association has urged the unqualified support of every citizen for the University of Nebraska and its future.

The Association, in a resolution adopted Sunday at its annual business meeting at the Scottish Rite Temple in Lincoln, said the University needs this support to remain competitive with other great educational institutions and to maintain its high position in the field of higher education.

"The educational program which is now being formulated for the future of the University of Nebraska by Chancellor Hardin, is a program looking to a greater contribution to the intellectual, moral and economic welfare of our people."

Why Ancient Age can say:
*"If you can find a better bourbon
...buy it!"*

For many, many years we've believed so devoutly in straight Kentucky bourbon that we've distilled nothing but!

We comb sun-dappled fields for the choicest ripened grains. We use bright, clear Kentucky spring water. We wait patiently through the years while Ancient Age reaches rich maturity. We seal and bottle the incomparable result only at the distillery where it is born (essential for quality and uniformity). And whiskey experts have always agreed with us that there is no better bourbon, and that Ancient Age is a bargain at any price.

Now there is still another reason for Ancient Age's popularity. More than six years ago, we laid away extra stocks of Ancient Age. So today we actually lower the price of this truly matchless bourbon. Today this millionaire's whiskey can be enjoyed by everyone.

Taste Ancient Age and you'll see why we can say: "If you can find a better bourbon...buy it!" Reason? There is no better bourbon. And, at its new low price, this is the greatest value in history.

Helicopters Rescue Over 100 Marooned On Lake

VANCE, S. C. (AP) — Helicopters Sunday rescued more than one hundred fishermen and pleasure boaters stranded overnight on islands dotting 12-mile long Lake Marion.

Another hundred, marooned by winds, choppy water and freezing temperatures made shore by their own efforts. There were no known casualties among the men, women and children, except for minor exposure cases.

Two helicopters from Shaw Air Force Base at Sumter flew a shuttle service and brought more than 100 persons to safety. Other stranded persons built fires on the small islands and protected themselves against the 28-degree temperature until the sun came up Sunday.

Stumps Foil Boats
Stumps and tree trunks exposed by the low water level prevented rescue by large boats. The lake was 18 feet below normal following a dry spell.

The lake is about 30 miles southeast of Columbia and 15 miles east of Orangeburg.

The Sikorski H19 helicopters which can carry 10 persons at a time, then flew a weave pattern about 1,000 feet over the lake and its islands and sighted no more stranded persons. Many of those marooned were wearing light

'Top Secret' GM-Design Theft Brings 3 Arrests

DETROIT (AP) — Two police officers and a General Motors Corp. plant guard were under arrest Sunday for investigation of grand larceny in the theft of top secret style plans of future GM cars.

State police said the three were seized Friday after two of them sold photographs of GM models to an independent automobile designer in Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Designs of new model cars are among the most closely guarded secrets of the auto industry. Police said GM claimed that had the pictures fallen into hands of competitors, it would have cost the company millions of dollars to retool and change designs.

Arrested were Elmer E. Bolla, 27, of suburban East Detroit; Thomas Robertson, 32, of suburban Roseville, and Richard Declaire, 23, also of Roseville, and a brother-in-law of Bolla.

Deputy Fired

Bolla, a Macomb County deputy sheriff since March 15, was fired after his arrest, Robertson, a Roseville policeman, was suspended.

Taxpayers Ask Construction Of High School

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP) — The Holdrege Board of Education had before it Sunday a recommendation for construction of a new high school building.

The recommendation, from Citizens for Education, a volunteer committee of Holdrege taxpayers, came after study groups of the organization had spent months probing the Holdrege school problem.

Proponents of the plan say the crowded condition of the schools will reach a crisis in September of 1959.

Although the studies indicated probable cost of the new structure at $605,000, the committee did not incorporate a cost limit in the recommendation.

The recommendation asked for construction of a new high school building and conversion of the present Junior-Senior High School Building to a junior high. A portion of the lower floor of the junior high would be used for elementary classes.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

(Distributed by International News Service)

If curiosity killed the cat, information brought it to life again.

That's why the GOP is staking nine feline careers on Ike's 1956 specialities and planifications.

Will he place his victorious coat-tails back in the passenger trade? Or will he retire to the fertile window-boxes of western Pennsylvania?

That's the problem among the snugly scattered Republicans of official Washington. They want to stay official.

Will Ike prefer a fourth day at Gettysburg to four years in Washington?

Will he select Pennsylvania over Pennsylvania Avenue? Does he

Bugs Baer

Ike must be fatigued after being on the go all his life like a rented piano.

He has served his nation from plebe to seven-star beach-header. The GOP slogan was "We Like Ike." But they get sore when Ike likes Ike.

If Ike wants to retire like Cincinnati we'll speak to Birdie Tebbetts. Old Birdie could put a pillow in left field.

Ike, there's nothing like farm life if you got a reliable rocker on the porch. The writer has a little place he can call his own after the first and second mortgages.

Sixty-two is a long time even when you're winning. In billiards and politics it's the winner who first runs out of buttons.

If Ike wants to retire, let him go, lubbers, let him go.

QUIRKS

FORCHHEIM, West Germany (INS)—American tank crews on practice maneuvers ran into "unexpected resistance" when they "attacked" the village of Poxdorf. Repeated explosions from a clump of bushes forced the tanks to fall back.

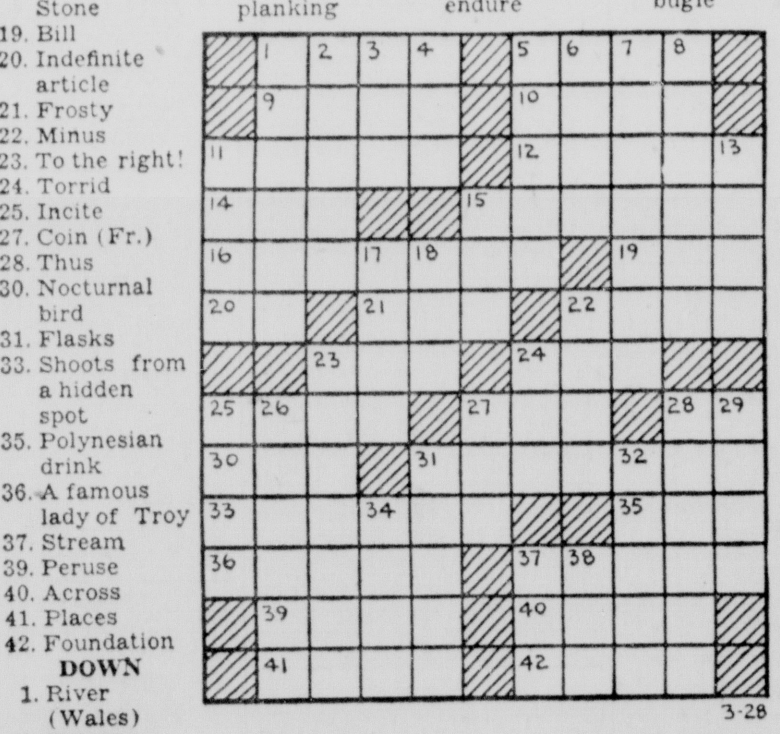

After some investigation, it was discovered two German school-boys were the "resistance." They set off the blasts in oil cans.

HUDERSFIELD, England (AP)—The Rev. Reginald Parry likes to knit—especially on train trips. "It starts people talking," the 64-year-old cleric said, "and the chance often arises to spread the Christian message."

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
